

HER HIGHNESS IS 'BETTY' TO HER SAILOR HUSBAND

The Duke of Edinburgh calls his Princess wife "Betty." This was revealed at Monday's state luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

Princess Elizabeth was so engrossed in the diamond and emerald necklace and earrings presented her by the people of the province through Premier Byron Johnson, she obviously was forgetting the rigid time schedule. Finally the Prince leaned toward her and said:

"Betty, we really should be leaving."

"Betty agreed and on their way out the Princess was heard to remark she had never received a more beautiful gift than the necklace and earrings."

Prince Philip asked her why she didn't put them on.

It wasn't known if Her Royal Highness did so.

She was so well wrapped against the weather for the tour of the city which followed the luncheon that it was impossible to see what jewelry she wore.

Egypt Defies Ban In Sudan

Troops Ordered To Remain There
By Force London War Office Hears

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 23 (AP).—Egyptian mobs roamed the streets of Cairo today shouting for arms to settle their differences with Britain. It was a nation-wide "day of mourning" to honor 16 Egyptians killed in last week's disorders.

(In London, meanwhile, the War Office said it has received a report that Egyptian troops have been ordered to stay in the Sudan by force if necessary.)

(The War Office said the report came from the senior British official in the Sudan.)

14 Red Jets Hit In Huge Air Battle

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 23 (AP).—Far East air forces today reported at least 14 Communist jets were destroyed or damaged and three B-29 Superfortresses were hit in an air battle over north-west Korea.

F.E.A.F. said waves of Russian-built Mig-15's swept down on Superfortresses bombing a new Red airfield at Namai.

Allied airmen were credited with destroying five Red jets, probably destroying two, and damaging between seven and 10.

One B-29 plunged into the water off the Korean coast. Its crew bailed out and was being rescued. Two other B-29's were damaged but landed at Allied bases in Korea.

The air battle overshadowed action on the quieting ground fronts.

United Nations tanks and infantry forces began enveloping smoldering Kumung, deserted former Red stronghold on the central front. The Allies in the eastern mountains beat off three Red probing attacks. And in the west, raiding U.N. patrols got into a stiff fight with entrenched Chinese west of Yonchon.

The big air battle flamed as B-29's from Okinawa rained 100,000 pounds of high explosives on the Namai airfield—the second new Red airfield hit in two days.

Waves of Red jets swept in from Manchuria in "one of the heaviest and most determined attacks ever launched against the Superfortresses by the Migs," an air force announcement said.

Reds Call For 'Rational' Stand In Truce Talks

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 23 (AP).—Red China's Peiping radio today quoted Premier Mao Tse-tung as saying Chinese will continue to "resist America" until the U.S. accepts Red peace proposals in Korea.

The Chinese premier added that armistice negotiations "will be a success if America takes a rational stand in truce talks."

The broadcast was heard in Tokyo as the Reds let another day slip by without approving an agreement to reopen cease-fire talks which they broke off two months ago.

Mao's remarks were taken to mean the Communists haven't changed their position during the two-month break in negotiations. Red negotiators had insisted on a cease-fire line along the 38th parallel. They said the United Nations emphasis on a battle-line truce was irrational.

NEW DELEGATES

Earlier Peiping radio reported the Reds had reshuffled their five-man truce team, naming two new delegates. A U.N. spokesman said the change might indicate the Reds would place greater emphasis on military realities and less on political considerations.

Reorganization of the Communist delegation was announced as the Reds ignored a U.N. challenge to ratify quickly new truce rules. That was the only thing still needed to reopen negotiations to end the fighting in Korea. The Red delay ruled out the possibility of a meeting before Wednesday.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, top Allied negotiator, signed the new ground rules Monday a few hours after liaison officers approved them. He asked North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, head of the Red truce team, to act quickly so negotiations could be resumed.

The broadcast said Chinese Gen. Pien Chiang-wu will replace Chinese Gen. Tung Hwa, and North Korean Gen. Cheng Du Kon will succeed North Korean Gen. Chang Pyong San.

(A Hong Kong dispatch identified Pien as a former military attaché to Red China's embassy in Moscow.)

Tired, Happy, Royal Visitors Start Up-Island On 'Holiday'

Princess' Smile Charms Veterans

The charming smile of Princess Elizabeth burst forth in all its glory Monday afternoon when First World War veteran Harry Sharplin, second from right, identified himself as a Cockney when he said "I was born within the sound of the Bowbells" during royal visit to Victoria

Freight Jams As Stevedores' Strike Paralyzes New York Port; Boston Hit

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP).—Tons of army material and civilian merchandise piled up on the docks today with striking stevedores in almost complete control of the world's biggest port.

The freight jam has brought a railroad embargo on most goods consigned here for export and coastal shipping.

As the rebel walkout threatened to erupt along the Atlantic coast, harassed union leaders were summoned to an emergency meeting today by their president, John P. Ryan.

Ryan, head of the International Longshoremen's Association (I.L.A.), said the session would be attended by executive committee members of the Atlantic district.

There were reports that I.L.A. leaders would bow to the demands of the wildcat strikers and ask to reopen contract talks with shipping and stevedoring firms.

All but one or two piers in the harbor were tied up Monday night.

Some 97 vessels have been immobilized by the strike, and several others have had to start return voyages with their original cargoes still in the holds.

Estimates of the number of strikers ranged from 6,000 and 20,000.

They are demanding a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase instead of the 10-cent boost the employers granted in the new contract. This pact raised the average pay to $2.10 an hour.

BOSTON, Oct. 23 (AP).—Shipping in and out of the port of Boston was paralyzed today by a sympathy strike of 1,500 longshoremen and 400 freight handlers. The men are refusing to unload cargo diverted here from struck New York and New Jersey piers.

Nine freighters were tied up by the walkout.

The strike also threatened to interfere with the departure this afternoon of the Furness Withly liner Newfoundland with 70 passengers for Halifax, St. John's, Nfld., and Liverpool.

Eng. Company officials said the vessel would sail without loading cargo for the United Kingdom.

Early Fire Sees $6,000 House Damage

An estimated $6,000 damage was caused by fire early today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Smith, 2755 Scott Street.

Flames spread from the basement of the house to three upstairs rooms, destroying $1,600 in stored furniture but missing a nearby bedroom in which 14-year-old Stanley Smith was asleep.

House and contents were covered by insurance.

The fire was believed caused by overheated furnace pipes too close to woodwork.

Flames awakened Mrs. Smith, her two children and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Smith, shortly before 5:30.

Mrs. Smith's husband is in hospital, recovering from injuries received in a recent accident while at work. He is a plumber by trade.

Kitchen, dining room and parlor of the house were damaged extensively as well as the basement. Flames were extinguished by city firemen before they reached bedrooms in the five-room frame dwelling.

PRINCESS MAY RETURN ON WAY TO AUSTRALIA

Was there a special significance to Princess Elizabeth's remark Monday that "We hope we will have a chance to return to the West Coast—before too long—has passed?"

Observers were wondering today whether in view of the tense situation in the Suez and Near East—this was a hint that Their Royal Highnesses might travel this way on their trip to Australia.

They are due to visit Australia shortly after the turn of the year. It is known that Col. Martin Charteris, private secretary to Princess Elizabeth, is working on the original draft of the tour, while still engaged with the Canadian visit.

"The remark puzzled me when I heard it," said one local official. "Perhaps it was a gracious pleasantry. But these speeches are usually drafted with care."

Today I can't help wondering whether Her Royal Highness was giving us a broad hint that she would be back this way within three months."

Davidoff Loses Murder Appeal

Appeal Court today dismissed the murder appeal of Doukhobor John M. Davidoff of Brilliant, B.C.

The accused is scheduled to be executed on Dec. 11. Davidoff was found guilty by a Nelson Assize Court jury of shooting his 20-year-old son Joseph, last spring.

The son was found dead in bed. He had been killed by a rifle bullet. Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, in handing down judgment on behalf of the court, said a mass of evidence pointed to Davidoff as the guilty man "with certainty."

Way Point Citizens Line Up To Cheer Passing Cars

At the western extremity and turning point in a tour which has brought them face to face with 4,000,000 Canadians, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip today started a brief but well-earned holiday.

The three-day rest at Eaglecrest, near Qualicum, will restore the royal stamina in preparation for the trip back to Montreal, Washington and Newfoundland where millions are awaiting them.

The royal couple left Government House about 2:30 this afternoon on a flexible schedule.

They expect to arrive at Eaglecrest about 6 p.m., and they will pass through Nanaimo about 5:30 p.m.

Every organized body in the Cowichan district was alerted early this morning to be ready for the royal procession. The highway near Duncan was decorated at an early hour.

Mayor J. C. Wragg was hoping everyone would get the message.

TELEPHONE HOT
Cowichan District 65 School Board kept telephones hot all morning arranging for school buses and other transportation to bring 3,000 children to vantage points.

The decision to go directly to Eaglecrest today was announced this morning.

Previous plans, announced Monday night, had Princess Elizabeth scheduled for an appointment with her hairdresser this morning and "complete rest" in the afternoon.

The Prince was to have flown by Canoe amphibian with Lieut. Gov. Clarence Wallace to his hunting lodge at Silver Bay on the Mainland. They planned on duck-hunting.

Fishing was scheduled for Genoa Bay Wednesday morning.

STUDIED WEATHER
All those plans were changed after Their Royal Highnesses studied the weather forecast.

"They changed their minds," said Walter Thompson, chief press officer who made the announcement.

"This is a holiday so there will be no hard and fast program," said Lt.-Cmdr. Michael Parker, equerry-in-waiting.

Strict security regulations have been put into effect around Eaglecrest. Nobody will be allowed beyond the front gate so the lodge will give the royal couple plenty of privacy.

Their Royal Highnesses are expected to view logging operations near Qualicum some time during their stay. They are anxious to watch high-riggers at work.

Bond Sales Up
OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—The Bank of Canada today reported $67,500,000 worth of Canadian savings bond sales during the first week of the current campaign.

Sales, increasing 21 per cent from the $55,700,000 in the first week of last year's campaign, went to 209,000 buyers, up 4 per cent from 200,600 buyers in the same period last year.

Times, Guardian Siding Tories As Odds Lengthen

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP).—Two of Britain's most respected newspapers, The Times of London and The Manchester Guardian, today swung their support behind the Conservative party in last-minute decisions before Thursday's general election.

Neither is affiliated with one of the two major parties.

In leading editorials they advanced the same reason for their decision—namely, that the Labor party and its Socialist policies no longer will serve the best interests of the country.

The campaign moved into high gear as the polling approached. Britons awaited with interest the final major speech—this afternoon from Winston Churchill, who will again be prime minister if the Conservatives take over the government.

CLOSING APPEALS
Major personalities in both parties headed for strategic areas to make closing appeals to voters. Both organizations sent out teams of doorbell-ringers in districts classed as "doubtful."

The consensus still was that the Tories will win.

Meanwhile a tremendous betting surge on Winston Churchill and his Conservatives was reported today by London bookmakers.

Douglas Stuart Ltd., one of the United Kingdom's biggest betting commissionaires, marked up the odds against a Labor Government victory from 3 to 1 to 9 to 2 between mid-morning and early evening.

Meanwhile his odds against the Conservatives were slashed from 2 to 9 to 1 to 6.

This means a person who wants to bet on Labor must put up two dollars to win nine, while a Conservative backer must risk six dollars to win one.

"It's the biggest betting election ever," said Stuart spokesman. "More money is coming in than we have handled on any horse race this year except the Derby. A lot of the bets are big ones—up to a thousand pounds."

At Plymouth Winston Churchill said today a Labor victory in Thursday's general election would weaken Anglo-American unity and the hope of world peace.

The Conservative leader, in his last major speech before polling day, called the patched-up quarrel between Prime Minister Clement Attlee and laborite left-wing leader Aneurin Bevan a "sham reconciliation."

"Nothing else could be worse for our country," said Churchill, "and nothing could be more injurious to the cause of world peace, than for Mr. Attlee to be returned dependent upon a sham reconciliation between the main body of the Socialist party and the powerful and turbulent left-wing forces whom Mr. Bevan represents."

Churchill said a third world war could only come if the Soviet government miscalculated its chances of ultimate victory.

No Break In Dock Strike

Military policemen are on guard as striking dock workers mill about the vital Brooklyn, N.Y., army base where six ships at four docks were idled by the walkout. The strike has since spread to Boston and a meeting of key International Longshoremen's Association officials may make the strike an official union action.

I'm beginnin' t' understand why those boys in th' olden days bolted on their armor an' went off in search of princesses.

Hope them ducks straighten up an' fly right fer th' Duke.

Just fer a day or two it was nice t' fergit Iran, Korea, Egypt, Buttle Lake an' them other problems.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

MALE PLUMAGE

NOW THAT our Royal visitors have reached this most western point of their tour practically everything that can be said about their youthful charm and graciousness has already been said. But the most flamboyant hyperbole and the most Hollywoodish of superlatives could pay them no higher tribute than to say that Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip both exceeded all our rosiest expectations in every way. That is why Victorians threw off their alleged inhibitions and shouted themselves hoarse in welcome.

Social editors all over Canada, too, have vied with each other in describing the girlish beauty of Her Royal Highness and the elegance of her wardrobe, designed for her by past-masters in the art of "haute couture." We have also heard, from time to time, of what His Royal Highness has been wearing, even to such details as the price tag that still remained on the blue jeans he donned for square dancing in Ottawa—a little human touch that every Canadian appreciated.

NATURAL LAW

WITH THE PRINCE thus sharing the sartorial limelight with the Princess, it was only natural that prominence has been given, in advance of the arrival of the Royal pair at their various stopping places, as to what male "presentees" should wear and do when the great moment comes.

Take Toronto, for instance. There, the City Clerk who is that city's official chief of protocol and precedent, briefed the councillors on what to do and wear. He showed them how to bow lightly from the waist and even demonstrated a neat curtsy for the dignitaries to pass on to their wives.

'EXECUTIVE SUITS'

WHEN IT CAME to what the well-dressed Toronto councillor should wear, he favored what he described as "executive suits." The latter, said to be indigenous to Bay Street, consist of straight cut dark suits and striped trousers. According to the news item they are also known as "directors' suits"—a very Toronto-ish term.

IF AVAILABLE

LOCALLY, those males who had the privilege of being presented were advised "to wear morning dress, if available, if not, an ordinary suit, preferably dark." And looking around at Monday's reception in the Parliament Buildings, I was naturally impressed by the number to whom morning dress was evidently available.

It is years since I saw so much sartorial elegance and so many top hats of pristine polish. My mind being the queer thing that it is, I had one of those "flashbacks" to the occasion, many years ago, when the Duke of Connaught, then Governor-General, was paying his farewell visit to Kamloops.

BORROWED PLUMES

THAT INLAND city was then very much in the pioneer stage and the local dignitaries did not possess formal attire. But they felt that the occasion warranted an extra splurge, so they sent off to Vancouver for a carload—more or less—of morning coats and top hats.

The great day dawned and with it came intense heat. Morning coats appeared, some worn with tweed pants and brown shoes. Toppers of varying vintage were perched on heads that didn't quite fit. Before the long parade was over, ears that had been starched to keep up the topper were wilting with disastrous and ludicrous results! And the same train that took the Duke and his party on to Vancouver, took back the plush garb, too.

TAKE A-HOLT, DOOK!

THAT reminds me of another story concerning the Duke of Connaught and his visit to Toronto about that same time. People wondered how to address the Royal visitor when presented. One day he attended a ball game and a Toronto Maple Leaf pitcher was among those presented. The Duke asked the pitcher how he threw the ball. According to the story, the pitcher spat out a stream of tobacco juice, then handed the ball to the Duke, saying: "Here, Dook, take a holt like this."

Like the Kamloops incident, that Toronto episode added what is known as "local color" to the Duke's tour. And, if I know anything of Canada today, the present Royal tour won't be lacking in it, either—or in human interest.

Royal Party Cuts Visit To Docks To Save Time

The visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to H.M.C. Dockyard, Esquimalt, took less than 20 minutes, although originally scheduled to take 30.

The Royal couple arrived late and cut their visit to the naval establishment short in order to make up time and arrive at Royal Roads on schedule.

They did, however, take time for a quick walk through the dockyard's boiler shop, machine shop and torpedo shop, and made a hurried stop at Admiral's House, residence of Pacific Coast flag officer, Rear Admiral Wallace Creery.

Rear Admiral Creery welcomed the Royal Couple to the dockyard outside the drydock pump house. It was pouring with rain and blowing when the Royal caravan arrived.

FURLINED GALOSHES

The Admiral had a pair of furlined galoshes in hand for the Princess and he assisted her on with them before she alighted from the car.

A plastic raincape was not needed since the princess already wore a raincoat. A staff officer walked with the Princess, and held an umbrella over her during her brief walk between shops.

In the boiler shop a large signboard greeted the Royal pair. It said:

"The 2,500 employees of His Majesty's Canadian Dockyard on holiday in your honor welcome you to Esquimalt."

"Ah, they've got a holiday have they?" the Prince remarked with a wide grin.

Young Couple Facing Manslaughter Charge

MONTREAL, Oct. 23 (CP).—Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Bruyere Monday were charged with manslaughter in the death of their four-month-old daughter and were released on parole, the first time anyone so similarly charged was paroled in criminal courts here. The young couple was ordered to appear for preliminary hearing Oct. 25. Earlier a coroner's jury found them criminally responsible for the death of Yvette who died Friday night from suffocation.

The task of arm waving orchestra conductors has been made lighter since someone dreamed up the idea of making batons of aluminum. This gave us the notion that aluminum bullfiddles would be a lot lighter to lug around. But, sure enough, someone had thought of that, too! Aluminum certainly lightens the load for lots of people these days—and in lots of ways.

To make more of this metal available Alcan is embarked on a further long-range expansion programme which will run to a quarter of a billion dollars. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Indian Dances, Drums For Royalty

For 20 minutes Monday Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were in a supernatural world—a world of carved figures, gyrating Indians clad in furs and costumes of bark, dancing to the beat of drums.

They were the guests of some 300 of the Island's Indian tribes at Thunderbird Park, where they witnessed what was undoubtedly one of the most colorful events of their Canada-wide tour.

In contrast to the stateliness of their arrival Sunday, they were given a tremendous ovation by the packed thousands surrounding the park as they arrived in an open car and took their places at a covered stand facing it.

SHOWED ENJOYMENT

Both the Princess and the Duke were animated as they watched the antics of the painted women dancers and the masked men. Despite the cold, they smiled and laughed, chatting to one another and to Premier Johnson and their aides. They held copies of the program which told them about the various dances.

The park about the green on which the dancers performed was packed with a solid mass of humanity. Trees, fencetops, vantage points atop nearby buildings, and the Crystal Garden accommodated the overflow of those who could not see from the streets.

The Royal party rose for a better view as the girl and women dancers wove about in front of them.

PRINCE AMUSED

The brightly-colored masks used by some of the performers in the head-dress dance, particularly, held the attention of the Royal pair. And the Prince's face broke into a wide grin as the Indian buffoon, "Yellow Cedar Face," went through his antics and uttered doleful cries.

Chiefs, counsellors and the rank-and-file of the Port-Alberni, Songhees, Nanaimo, Cowichan, Beechey Bay, Esquimalt, Sooke, Saanich and Malahat tribes were on hand.

BARE-CHESTED LEADER

The group gave four loud cheers for the Royal pair as they arrived. The cheers were led by bare-chested James Gallick Sr., of Port Alberni.

Gallick denied he was cold, despite the chilling wind. "I'm from Alaska," he boasted to curious spectators.

Island Indians Entertain Royalty

Vancouver Island Indian bands gathered at Thunderbird Park Monday and revived age-old dances for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, near centre of covered stand). Above is scene from Headdress Dance, participated in by girls (in white) and old women (in darker shawls). At right, seven Indians beat out rhythms on tom-toms. Royal pair seemed delighted to see colorful event, and paid close attention to the dances. Picture on left shows Chief Adam Shewish of Port Alberni, instructing tiny Nora Williams, 3, complete with colorful shawl and dark skirt, on her part in the dance. (Times photos.)

OPPOSITION—In Regina, the United Church of Canada, officially opposed appointment of any Canadian representative to the Vatican, Rev. J. R. Mutchmor of Toronto, secretary of the United Church social service, said Monday.

Dr. Mutchmor said in an interview that the reason, recorded in a resolution of the General Council, is that such action would involve recognition of the Roman church as a state.

"Our communion believes such a move would result in serious dissension and disunity in Canada," he said.

He said that all Canadian churches were proclaimed equal before the law in a Dominion statute of 1851.

The Canadian ambassador to Italy got all available information in Rome, making unnecessary any special approach to the Vatican.

SURRENDER—In Hollywood, western actor Tim Holt, son of the late film star Jack Holt, was expected to surrender to sheriff's deputies today on a warrant from Little Rock, Ark., charging him with perjury.

Palaski County Sheriff Tom Gulley sent the warrant to Los Angeles authorities, asking them to hold the actor under $2,500 bond for allegedly making false statements while attempting to obtain an Arkansas divorce on Oct. 4.

BY MOON—In Tokyo, the Tokio Optical Company said today it has perfected a camera lens that will revolutionize movie, television and still photography.

The company, one of the leaders of Japan's fast-growing camera industry, claimed its new similar F-0.7 lens will permit pictures to be taken successfully under the light of a full moon at a shutter speed of one-fifth of a second.

CONGRATULATIONS—In Washington political observers speculated today that Sen. Robert A. Taft may be trying to arm himself against the issue of "McCarthyism" which Democrats are expected to hurl at him in the coming presidential campaign.

The Ohio Republican told newsmen in Des Moines, Ia., Monday night that he believed Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) had "overstated his charges" in some cases about Communists in the government.

Sen. William Benton (D-Conn.) "congratulated" Taft for his apparent "change of attitude about his Republican colleague."

WINGED—The "Buck Rogers" era was one step closer today with the announcement in Los Angeles that a rocket-powered, one-man helicopter for possible use in hedge-hopping troops in battle was in the test stages.

The whole business weighs less than 100 pounds and can be parked in a space no larger than the top of an office desk.

A single "joy stick" is used to govern the speed of the rotors and to control the action of the rudder.

The pilot's feet serve as his landing gear, but a small tripod may be attached for this purpose.

The pinwheel operates with the pilot straddling the seat with the "pinwheel" strapped to his waist.

The operator will wear a flying helmet.

WELCOME WITHOUT EQUAL Children, Aged, Greet Royal Couple

The rain beat an incessant tattoo for the four-hour motor tour of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh through Victoria Monday afternoon.

In fact the city gave their Royal Highnesses the warmest welcome they have had in Canada.

But it was a welcome without equal from the 17,000 school children to the rain-soaked navy men at H.M.C.S. Dockyard.

The opening "shot" in the second series of atomic tests at Palaski County Sheriff Tom Gulley sent the warrant to Los Angeles authorities, asking them to hold the actor under $2,500 bond for allegedly making false statements while attempting to obtain an Arkansas divorce on Oct. 4.

BABY ROARED, PRINCE SMILED

Only lament of the afternoon came from a startled babe in arms when 150 Royal Roads cadets, inspected in the big drill hall, presented arms with great gusto.

The baby's cry will go down in family history, however, for the smiling Duke stopped to say a few words to the mother, on his way out of the hall.

This "operation umbrella" got underway in the wind and rain as Princess Elizabeth with a full-length beige raincoat over her coat, came down the Empress Hotel walkway to the waiting Cadillac after the government luncheon. The Prince turned and waved several times to the delight of the crowd.

Corey Thomson, Press Party Clown, Dons Outfit To Be Brave For Day

Corey Thomson, radio man from Station CKVL in Verdun, Quebec, holds the undisputed title of clown of the press party traveling with Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

In Calgary, when that city put on its wild west show for the Royal couple, other newsmen caught the spirit of the occasion and donned cowboy Stetsons.

Not Thomson. He found himself a horse to ride in the parade, but insisted on wearing a black bowler.

Monday in Victoria, Thomson turned up to cover official afternoon functions, dressed in an authentic Indian costume of deer skin, decorated with colored beads. He even wore buckskin moccasins. And on his head was his stand-by bowler with a giant feather in the band.

"I went into a store to buy an Indian sweater," he explained, "and the fellow dared me to wear this for awhile. So I said okay."

Thomson claimed Victoria's wrestling Chief Thunderbird had given him the feather for his hat.

"He made me a brave for the day. The feather makes it official."

PRINCESS SURPRISED

Thomson, who stood in the phone in hand to record that part of the tour, surprised Princess Elizabeth when her car drove up. Her eyes widened noticeably and a look of awe came over her face. Although the plastic top of her car prevented her words from being heard, she said something to Prince Philip about the costume and pointed out the window to show him where to look.

Philip grinned with delight. The Princess looked puzzled.

Off The Skyscraper

IN HIS LATEST PRONOUNCEMENT on inflation, Mr. Drew tries to have the best of all possible worlds. He wants lower prices without serious trouble to anyone. He wants to control a few prices without controlling the rest. He wants the state to stabilize the national economy without the power to do it. Rejecting the C.C.F. plan for complete state regulation, he wants to appear as the one man who can perform a painless miracle.

First, he urges a reduction in the cost of government. This is sound and essential if we are to fight inflation successfully, since the state's huge demand for goods through its expenditures is one of the basic causes of inflation. But this is the same Mr. Drew who would vastly increase the expenditures of the federal government by giving everyone an old-age pension at the age of 65 and would raise the present scale of children's allowances. Mr. Drew still stands on the Conservative Party platform of 1948 which would almost double the non-defense costs of government.

Second, Mr. Drew would increase production by removing restrictions on production. This is also sound since inflation is the result of production below the level of attempted consumption. But it is not clear what restrictions against production Mr. Drew would remove, how he expects a nation already producing more than ever, its economy operating at full steam, to increase its output, except by the methods advocated by the government. The government has pleaded with the workers of Canada to work a little harder and a little longer so that they may have more goods for themselves after providing the goods of armament, so far without any significant results.

Third, Mr. Drew would start a building program to give the people the homes they need. This is a desirable objective, and the government already has eased its credit restrictions on building, but it contributes nothing to the defeat of inflation. Quite the contrary. For the use of materials and labor in housing, however necessary it may be, worsens the shortage of goods and helps to bid up prices. Large-scale housing may be essential. Assuredly it is inflationary.

Fourth, Mr. Drew would promote the development of Canada's resources. Also sound, but at the moment Canada's resources are being developed, probably faster, on a proportionate basis, than those of any nation in the world. Indeed, the demands of our industries for manpower and materials to expand their operations are undoubtedly the largest single factor in the inflation, though in the end, when the new factories are actually producing goods some time hence, their effect will be, of course, deflationary. An any case, in urging the development of resources, Mr. Drew is only urging a process already under way on a gigantic scale.

Fifth, Mr. Drew would adopt, as reported by The Canadian Press "such selective controls as are needed to hold down the price of materials or supplies affected by government defense buying." In other words, a narrow and restricted system of selective price controls. This sounds easy. Of course it will not work.

The results of such a half-baked experiment can be seen after a moment's thought. The government, for example, attempts to control the price of metals. This means it must control the wages of miners who mine metals, the wages of factory workers who process it and the wages of those who sell the finished articles. Does Mr. Drew imagine that the workers in these enterprises will accept wage control while their neighbors in other enterprises are free to raise their wages? Does he suppose that one set of industrialists will accept a limitation on their prices while others are unrestricted? In any case it is not defense materials like metals that have been raising the cost of living. The only significant increases of prices for some months has been in the field of foodstuffs, which Mr. Drew would not control.

There is a certain logic in a policy of total and absolute state control of everything, though even the C.C.F. has not followed that logic so far, since it says nothing of controlling wages, the main ingredient of prices. But there is no logic and no chance of success in an attempt to control a few prices and the wages of a few people as urged by Mr. Drew. Prices have risen to an unprecedented height, he asks us to jump just a few feet off the top of a skyscraper.

While the government refuses that advice, Mr. Drew attacks it for using fiscal methods like revenue surpluses, increased interest rates and credit restrictions, which are having a powerful deflationary effect and can be still more effective if the public will accept them. Mr. Drew rejects the government's policy in favor of a plan which could not possibly succeed, which would either collapse altogether or lead straight into total government control of everything.

Still, it sounds easy and perhaps is well designed for its purpose. Its purpose is not to solve the problem of inflation but to solve the political problems of Mr. Drew. It is not an attempt at price control but vote control.

Acknowledging The Debt

WITH THE UNANIMOUS VOTE of its parliament to make restitution to the Jews for the wrongs of Nazism, West Germany has taken a long step back into the company of free and decent nations.

No act of the parliament, of course, no act of Germans either individually or collectively, can ever entirely make up for the unspeakable torture and impoverishment inflicted on the Jews during Hitler's most active decade. The hundreds of thousands of nameless graves, broken lives, sadistic cruelties, separated families, lost careers can never be fully atoned for. But a start can be made on bare, material recompense, and that is the step the Bonn government has made.

West Germany will enter negotiations with Israel with a view to arranging reparations payments. A Jewish estimate last year placed at some $600 millions the value of goods extorted by Hitler from West Germans of that race. That might well serve as a starting point for discussions.

The language which Chancellor Konrad Adenauer used in advancing his proposal illustrates the distance which separates the present West German government from the Nazi Germany of Hitler.

Dr. Adenauer referred to the "unspeakable crimes committed in the name of the German people," for the "obligation to make moral and material amends." That is a far cry from the hatred and Herrenvolk rubbish that Hitler screamed from a hundred platforms, and of which hundreds of thousands of German men and women shouted their approval.

Those days are gone, those sentiments silent. Perhaps the conversion of the people of West Germany is sincere. That is a big assumption. But there is hope in the fact that whereas Hitler compelled the people to share in his hatred, the present attitude appears to originate in spontaneous, personal feelings.

It is noticeable, however, that the reparations proposal has come only from West Germany. East Germany, under Communist domination, has not joined in the offer. It is significant, too, that the Communists alone, of all the West German political party leaders, did not speak in favor of Dr. Adenauer's measure. The party of the proletariat, of the brotherhood of the common man, is apparently not yet anxious to put its principles into practice; nor ready, it seems, to join West Germany in a return to the society of nations for whom common humanity is the highest ideal.

Life And McCarthy

FEW PUBLICATIONS IN THE UNITED States have done as much as the brilliant empire of Mr. Henry Luce to undermine faith in the foreign policy of the Truman government. The theory that the government is soft on communism, that communists have infiltrated the state department, that Alger Hiss was only one sample of a general evil has been drummed ceaselessly into the readers of "Time" and "Life." We take it as an encouraging sign, therefore, when "Life" flatly repudiates the smear campaign of Senator McCarthy.

The editors of "Life" apparently want Senator Taft elected President next year. To this end they urge him to disassociate himself from McCarthy. They think that McCarthy is a liability to the Republican party among a people who are sick of smear. "For communism, McCarthy version, will be a phony issue by '52; but McCarthyism is not and never will be a phony issue, because truth and decency are at stake."

McCarthyism is obviously false, says "Life," because President Truman and Mr. Acheson are now in a "position beyond all suspicion of pro-communism." It is good to hear that from "Life" which seemed to think, a few months ago, that Hiss was in charge of the nation's foreign policy. Grudgingly but completely the Luce empire has given the Truman administration a clean bill of health in the communist issue.

In honesty it could do no less for the notion that Truman and Acheson were secretly sympathetic to communism—the two statesmen who are mainly responsible for defending the world against the communists—was becoming only comical and ridiculous.

But McCarthy, though his personal honor has been indicted before a Senate committee, evidently intends to pursue his smear to the end, since he knows no other method of politics.

He has poisoned the whole atmosphere of Washington and appalled even those who supported him in the beginning. The cumulative debasement of U.S. politics, says "Life," "has gone far enough." Taft, it believes, could "unpoison the congressional atmosphere and add several cubits to his own political stature" if he would repudiate McCarthy. Since Taft may be soon the most powerful figure in the free world his action in this issue will be awaited with interest.

Cheap Price For Safety

THE CITY SHOULD MOVE QUICKLY to provide the $4,000 necessary to fill in Beacon Hill Park's Goodacre Lake to a depth of three feet. The sum is less than half of previous estimates, and the degree of safety it promises far outweighs financial considerations.

During every cold snap Goodacre Lake becomes a focal point for young skaters—usually children who are not in a position to go out to safer, shallower ponds in Saanich. Last winter's tragedy emphasized the danger which exists while the ice is forming over deep water at the park.

Filling the lake to the three-foot level would more than pay for itself in relief from anxiety on the part of Victoria parents. Waterfowl might suffer to some extent. Consideration for them, however, cannot be measured against existing risks to young lives when ice forms on the lake and attracts skaters to unnecessarily deep water.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

THE OTHER night I heard one of the world's subtlest jokes. Maybe it has been used before, but in this case it was impromptu, and was entirely new to me.

My friend and I had been talking about the best way to argue... to persuade men... to use, in effect, the fine old art of rhetoric, which is nothing but persuasion with a fancy name. All use of language is persuasion really. And nobody used language better than St. Jane Austen in the novel called "Persuasion."

Well, my friend and I talked about arguing from the general to the particular, and about arguing from the particular to the general, and about the various advantages and disadvantages of these two methods. And suddenly my friend said: "Did you ever hear about the General who wasn't very particular?"

For some reason or other, this pleased me a lot. Imagine a General Officer who wasn't fussy! Imagination boggles. It really does. My friend, I am sorry to say, has a pretty wit. Yes, and a sense of irony which will make him extremely unpopular before he's through. People hate irony... that's why it's so valuable. If you want to make people hate you, I mean.

CHARS, I HAVE SEEN THEM FALL. "STARS, I have seen them fall," sang A. E. Housman. "Chars, I have not only seen them fall but I have seen them all," sang old Brocky. And he had seen quite a lot of chars, too, until he met Mrs. McGookus (which is not her real name). And after seeing Mrs. McGookus, he freely admits he ain't seen nothin' yet. Mrs. McGookus is the nonpareil. No one is like her, none. One thing about Mrs. McGookus is this: she thinks my wife cooks very queer foods, and not only cooks these horrible things but actually devours them, including tripe, brains, kidneys, sweetbreads, and heaven knows what intimate carrion.

MRS. MCGOOKUS arrives trembling, to think of what she is going to be asked to eat. With a sigh and a shudder and a manly shrug, she will say: "Well, Mrs. Brock, what's it going to be today? To be fair to Mrs. McGookus and my wife simultaneously, Mrs. McGookus appears to eat up the old groceries in fine shape. She just has theoretical objections, not physical ones. She even eats tripe, provided we don't tell her what it is. If we're crazy enough to tell her it's tripe, she throws a most efficient little fit. No sense in being a char unless you can act."

WELL, the other day Mrs. McGookus heard my wife telephoning for Brunswick sausage. Brunswick in German, as perhaps you know, is Braunschweiger, pronounced "Brown-shyger." When the char heard my wife asking for "Brown-shyger," she thought this meant "brown spiders." Nor was she astonished... she had known all along that we ate brown spiders and other rubbish of that sort. So she came to my wife and said, "Mrs. Brock, I heard you ordering brown spiders from the butcher just now. We have quite a lot of brown spiders at home, and I'll save them for you... provided I don't have to eat the things myself." And if that isn't helpful, I don't know what is.

TIME HATH, MY LORD, A WALLET AT HIS BACK. I HAVE BEEN giving my wallet its annual clean-out. What riches I have found! Not in the way of currency, you understand, but old souvenirs of the dead past. Somewhere or other, I can never recall where, Shakespeare says that time hath a wallet at his back. My wallet hath time at his back. I have just dug out and burnt the following debris: a certificate saying I can get a second free tune-up at my garage within 60 days or 1,000 miles (both expired); a ticket to Hansel and Gretel last Christmas, which I was too stupid not to use; a newspaper clipping saying, on medical evidence, the Irish are the most sensitive to pain... I'd always thought they gave pain best, too, for I am very sensitive to my Irish cousins.

A CHIT SAYING I passed my driver's test with flying colors, which makes me practically an educated type; a driver's license which expired on my birthday, long past, oh dear... no, I didn't burn that, but I'll have to do something about it; a slip saying the Hudson's Bay Co. owes me $4.64; I can't remember why and I bet they can't either; an empty envelope saying "37.50 enclosed," but it isn't; a Press Card saying that I am entitled to go through police and customs duty-free; a note printed by the Japs for use in Burma, and surcharged "B.C." in red ink, which can't mean British Columbia... we have Japs here and we had Jap ambitions here, but no rupees; my national registration card of 1940, with various Liquor Board stamps on the back of it; credit cards from all sorts of firms I never dealt with, and most of them two or three years out of date; a Christmas shopping list for 1950, full of duties not discharged.

A FESTIVE little list saying "4 brandy, 3 rum, 1 cointreau, 2 sherry"... that must have been quite a Christmas, whenever it was; a note reminding me to ask somebody I don't remember what the devil he means by saying that something of mine I don't remember was "very ordinary"; a map showing me how to get to a place I'm sorry I ever went to; a slip of paper saying "34.22"; as if that meant anything; and a clipping telling me where to pick my own raspberries at only about twice city prices... and I went to that place and picked them, too, partly to be stubborn, and partly to see if raspberry-picking still gave me hay-fever as of yore, and partly to sing "Les fraises et les framboises"... which is a French song about strawberries and raspberries... as loud as ever I could, all alone out there in the country. There happened to be a man on the other side of the bush, though, and he didn't like it. Matter of fact, he hated it. Hated me, too, the silly old fool.

JAMAICA VICTIMS

With regard to an article in your paper Monday, 15th inst. about lack of money to ship collected clothing to the distressed in Jamaica, one wondered, have the interested parties contacted the Red Cross. They should be the ideal channel to handle this situation.

As a contributor to the Red Cross over a period of years, I have done so with the conviction that my money would be used to help the unfortunate at home and abroad.

PEDESTRIAN TRAFFIC

With Victoria's traffic problems in the news it is perhaps timely to point out that many accidents could be avoided if pedestrian lights were installed which would motor traffic until people are out of the way, and I hope everyone will press for this reform here, following the example of Vancouver and other cities.

A pedestrian proceeding with the green light can at present so easily be in trouble by cars turning to the right or left, I saw such an accident at Yates and Quadra recently when a boy of 13 was sent flying through the air, from a pedestrian crossing, to land unconscious in the wet roadway, but miraculously still alive.

In this age of quick-get-away modern cars a misunderstanding means that the pedestrian gets the worst of it. After 35 years of driving without an accident I share with other veteran drivers the nightmare of Victoria.

RATE INCREASE

Looks as if we may be billed another increase on our phone bills.

Looks nice on the envelope: Thousands say "It's a good company to work for." That is all right but the other side of the picture is the one who has to pay, or do without a necessity, which many may do.

So people on the waiting list will get one in short time replacing customers who have subscribed for nearly 35 years. If there are any more increases.

I read in tonight's paper how that assistant professor of economics said at a meeting. If the increase is granted, it means a 14 per cent boost in rates.

SALES TAX

I am surprised that Esquimalt Municipal Council is apparently intending to "give in" to the ridiculous 10% charge on municipally-made sewer pipe for their own use.

As I understand the English language the word "sale" means "to sell," and how Ottawa can apply a sales tax onto something not sold is beyond my comprehension.

Mr. Mayhew thinks the charge quite in order, carried to its ridiculous conclusion, if this ruling passes unchallenged in the courts, Ottawa could charge the tax on hundreds of other things.

"Soul, thou hast much goods."—Luke 12:15.

He had much money and barns and fruits... Was highly successful with fine attributes... Yet Jesus proclaimed that a failure was he... His duty to God along with it all... If "tonight thy soul were required of thee?"

Improving The Partnership

A VERY penetrating article by Joseph Alsop in a recent Saturday Evening Post discusses, from the American point of view, "Our Trouble With The British." Mr. Alsop, back in the United States from a recent visit to London, described the distrust in Britain of American policy and a growing bitterness between the two nations.

The well-known analyst and reporter makes a strong plea for the elimination of this attitude, not on grounds of sentiment, but on very practical terms. The United States—with its safeguard of atomic bombs, and the planes to deliver them, furnishing a measure of protection against World War III—has apparently overlooked one vital factor, he suggests. It is that without bases in Britain and in other countries which might be expected to follow Britain's lead, those bombs and those planes lose their effectiveness if the enemy is Russia.

Mr. Alsop has a full appreciation for the importance of Anglo-American partnership not only on military grounds. He notes that the associations were happy when the threat of another war seemed remote—when it was assumed on both sides of the Atlantic that the Kremlin would not risk a shooting war. The change in that association he dates from Korea, where Communism showed itself ready to embark on a shooting war—and to the explosion of an atomic bomb in Russia.

Mr. Alsop makes a strong plea for a return of mutual confidence—now strained as Britain measures the risks of war and the United States weighs the risks of appeasement.

Mr. Alsop cites instances of irritation between the two countries, suggests these may be reduced if Winston Churchill is returned as Prime Minister this month, and closes with the statement that history has created a situation in which Britain is the United States' one indispensable ally. He quotes a friend: "If we stick together we'll win through; if we don't we're both finished."

There may be an inclination in parts of Canada to discount the depth of the breach the Saturday Evening Post article sees between Britain and the United States. It should be noted, however, that Joseph Alsop is not the only student of world affairs alarmed over that present condition.

DANGEROUS DELAY. The argument may well be advanced that the partnership would be surely and securely cemented again if the bombs began to fall. The weakness in that case, however, lies in the fact that should the bombs begin to fall, the re-union might be too late to be fully effective.

In Ottawa last month the nations of the Atlantic Pact set about the task of trying to weld together a new community. The difficulties of that job have merely been indicated. Certainly they are not reduced while tension exists between the United States and Britain. Once again the historic role of Canada as an interpreter between the two nations is thrown into clear relief. How the two great Anglo-Saxon countries feel about one another is very much our business. We, like the principals involved, can be of value in helping to restore friendship only as we recognize the strains under which that relationship is now laboring. Mr. Alsop has served a high purpose if he brings to us that realization.

Closed Down

Edmonton Journal

The action of the British government in closing down the powerful radio receiving station operated by the Soviet news agency, Tass, in London, is another sign of the growing suspicion with which this agency is regarded in the free world.

The station, known as the "Soviet Monitor" was used to pick up news broadcasts from Russian and the satellite states, which were then distributed to British and other newspapers and news agencies. It was thus an important link in the Soviet system for feeding news from behind the Iron Curtain—well mixed with propaganda—to the western world.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"THIS," said the Elevator Man, "is a great age for engineers. Everybody wants to get into the act. In the old days, of course, it was simple. You just had steam engineers, locomotive engineers, electrical engineers, and so on. But it wasn't long before engines didn't have much to do with it. We got civil engineers, chemical engineers, and other jobs further removed from whirling wheels and throttles. But that was only a start. Before we knew it we had a whole new tribe of food engineers, kitchen engineers, costume engineers and so on. Everybody was trying to engineer something, with more or less success. They even had efficiency engineers to help them. 'Gaining up!'"

"Sometimes," said the Elevator Man, "the name was used to add a little lustre to the job. You had fellows with brooms and pushcarts coming out as sanitary engineers. Carpenters became housing engineers, dirt farmers got to be agricultural engineers. And I see where there was a convention of truck drivers in Chicago—every last one of 'em a highway engineer. The fella who asked 'what's in a name' couldn't have been paying much attention, or he'd have known that in some cases the name is everything. Lower main!"

"Yessir," said the Elevator Man, "quite a lot depends on how you describe a thing. Take that story of the two neighbors, for instance. Says one, 'Hullo, Jones. What are you up to?' 'Just burying my pet canary,' says Jones. 'Yeah?' says the other, 'I happen to know you're burying my pet cat.' 'Yes,' answered Jones. 'You're quite right, old man. But my canary happens to be inside him.'"

Harris Answers Claims Freedom Train Refugees Denied Entry

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—Immigration Minister Harris today issued a statement covering government policy on the fact that eight of the "Freedom Train" refugees who broke across the border from Czechoslovakia to Western Germany have been denied entry to Canada.

Eleven of the refugees who have been granted entry are scheduled to arrive at Halifax tomorrow aboard the S.S. Goya.

Mr. Harris said that while there was much public interest in the "Freedom Train" refugees, their cases had to be considered on the same basis as those of other refugees who had crossed the Iron Curtain in less spectacular ways.

Weather Synopsis

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE RECORD TO DATE, 1951—2,361.2 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: Aftermath of the storm which crossed the coast Monday battered the weather ship in the Gulf of Alaska Monday night. Winds of over 60 m.p.h. were sustained for several hours, pounding the ship with waves 40 feet high. No winds of this velocity will reach the B.C. coast but a continued onshore flow of moist air will bring showers to most of the coast today.

Some moderation of low temperatures occurred in the Interior Monday but snow flurries will continue today in the Prince George and Bulkley Valley regions. An appreciable lessening in cloudiness over the whole province is looked for Wednesday.

REGIONAL FORECASTS VALID UNTIL MIDNIGHT WEDNESDAY

VICTORIA: Cloudy today with a few showers this evening. Few clouds Wednesday. Little change in temperature. Wind southwest 20 this afternoon and evening, otherwise light. Low tonight and high Wednesday, 40 and 50.

WEST COAST: Cloudy with numerous showers today and a few showers Wednesday. Little change in temperature. Wind southerly 15. Low tonight and high tomorrow at Estevan, 40 and 50.

VANCOUVER AND GEORGIA STRAIT: Cloudy today and Wednesday. Scattered showers this evening. Breezy periods Wednesday. Little change in temperature. Light winds. Low tonight and high tomorrow at Vancouver Airport, 40 and 50. Abbotsford and Nanaimo, 35 and 50.

HOME GARDEN

by Hilda Beasall

Now that the much-wanted rains have become a reality, we are inclined to complain about their persistence.

However, the digging of plant orders for fall delivery, which was necessarily delayed until the ground became moistened, is now being carried out, and the home gardener finds that planting must be done regardless of the weather.

If your soil is a sandy loam, the preparation of planting sites may be done at any convenient time but where one has a heavy clay loam it is a good plan to have the holes dug while the soil is workable so as to be ready when the trees and shrubs arrive.

It is important to lay the topsoil to one side when digging the holes, and place it back around the roots at planting time. The sub-soil is then used on the top to level off the hole. With most plants, old well rotted manure may be incorporated in the soil where the young feeding roots will develop, also some bone-meal but do not use any fresh manure or delecting fertilizers. The new rootlets must develop slowly, and forced top-growth will be winter killed.

When it comes to firming the soil around the roots, we so often read "read the soil firmly with the feet." This advice must be tempered with common sense. In the case of heavy clay or clay-loam, the soil should be firmed around the plant—but gently. If packed, the plant will be set in "concrete" by late spring. But with sandy loam tramping with the feet is in order.

Evergreen shrubs, and other plants which are delivered with the roots balled and burlapped, are fairly easy to plant since it is possible to see their depth in the nursery. The burlap may be left on while the plant is being set in position, after which it is cut and allowed to remain under the roots where it will soon decay. If the root-ball is at all dry, water well before filling in the soil.

Calgary Drunk Has Good Excuse

CALGARY, Oct. 23 (CP).—A Calgary man today was convicted of being drunk but his original defense, appropriately tuned to the time got him off with only a reprimand from the magistrate.

Said the accused, arrested downtown at the peak traffic hour:

"Anybody who can get through that traffic without getting killed certainly isn't drunk."

A cost of living bonus of one cent per hour for one and one-third points advance in the Dominion Government Cost of Living Index has also been offered retroactive to July 1.

A direct quotation from the Board of Conciliation Report:

From statements made to the Board it would appear that the scale of wages paid under these agreements is the highest in Canada in the brewing industry, while other allowances and working conditions are most favorable; these latter include: (a) Closed Shop; (b) Check-off; (c) 5-day 40-hour week; (d) Night differential of 5c per hour, payable between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m.; (e) Nine statutory holidays with pay; (f) Annual vacation—for service over one year, two weeks per year with full pay. For service over 15 years, three weeks with full pay; (g) Social Security—$1,000 life insurance for each employee, Medical Services Association, group sickness and accident coverage, weekly indemnity of $20.00. The cost of this protection is borne equally between the company and the employees; (h) Year-end bonus (payment of which is not however, obligatory by the company).

The social services quoted in the Conciliation Board Report cost the companies 27.24c per man hour in addition to the direct wages offered. This means that the lowest paid worker would receive wages and benefits amounting to $1.8287 per hour.

The facts are that the lowest paid employee of these companies would receive a higher wage than in any comparable category of employment in British Columbia industry or any brewery in Canada.

'Gosh, When You See Her Close, She's Beautiful'

Veterans In Hospital Chat With Prince And Laughing Princess In Informal Tour

"The princess laughed merrily!" That was the description of the reaction of Princess Elizabeth by elderly war veteran George Eagle after he had told her how he hoarded a 50-year-old box of chocolates when the royal couple visited the Veterans' Hospital Monday afternoon.

Seventy-nine-year-old Eagle is one of the "old sweats" who saw rugged action on the northeast frontier of India and the Boer War.

He sports three unique war medals presented by Queen Victoria during her reign—showing her as a young woman, middle-aged and old.

Princess Elizabeth's merriment was induced when Eagle explained how he had managed to "beat off" his five children from eating a souvenir box of chocolates presented to all South African troops in 1900 by Queen Victoria.

"SHE'S BEAUTIFUL!"

Without police guards on her heels on this visit, Princess Elizabeth—feeling that she was among staunch friends—looked relaxed.

Her frequent smiles could be described as genuine.

"Gosh, when you see her like this—close—the pictures we see in the newspaper certainly do not do the princess justice."

"She's beautiful!"

This was the firm opinion of Douglas O. Mylrea, Cordova Bay, the first bed-patient Princess Elizabeth spoke to on entering the hospital dining-rooms where 130 old and new Canadian veterans were assembled.

"You know, when she spoke to me I sort of got a little tongue-tied," Mylrea said. The princess asked after his welfare and what his unit was in the war. Mylrea was with the 5th Division's 17th Field Ambulance in Italy.

PRINCE IMPRESSIVE

Prince Philip followed his charming wife and spoke to veterans grouped in a semi-circle.

"He's all man... the kind that will continue to make this empire strong no matter what may come," said Arthur Hall, lieutenant of the R.C.N.R. (retired).

"The prince wanted to know what branch of the navy I was in," said Hall.

"I told him I was one of the seamen, and he grinned at me as much as to say 'that's what makes our navy,'" Hall said.

The royal couple was particularly interested in the medal Hall was wearing on his right lapel. In addition to the medals of the First and Second World Wars on the left lapel.

Both examined it carefully. It was a Canadian Royal Humane Society medal for saving the life of a boy in Halifax Harbor in 1925.

PRINCESS INTERESTED

Princess Elizabeth showed interest in the war certificate of William Tinkler, 91, of 1224 Stilly Street, the oldest veteran in the hospital.

The princess and prince both scanned the parchment that told Tinkler had been honorably discharged from the First World War as a disability case.

"This is very interesting," Her Highness said to Tinkler as she looked over the parchment.

Fred Chown, Duncan air force veteran hospitalized with tuberculosis of the spine, had the honor of presenting the princess with a bouquet of chrysanthemums grown by the veterans themselves.

SMILES HER THANKS

"It is with a great deal of pleasure I present you with this bouquet on behalf of the veterans and this hospital," said Chown. The princess accepted the gift with a gracious smile and a wish that the patient would recover. John Lim, 26, Chinese veteran of the Canadian force of the Far East, No. 136, was another bed patient greeted by Princess Elizabeth.

Princess Doesn't Dally On Inspection Of Guard

"We're fortunate it's not raining," Princess Elizabeth said Monday, with a quick glance at Victoria's sky. That was before the deluge.

The remark came during her inspection of artillery guard outside the Parliament Buildings, and was made in answer to a comment by Maj. J. A. Cook of Calgary, commander of the guard, who expressed his disappointment that the sky was murky.

Princess Elizabeth made her inspection in her customary quick fashion. She did not pause along the way as she strode past the two lines of rigid soldiers.

The Princess asked where the men were from and was told by

Maj. Cook that they came from all across Canada. She wanted to know, too, whether the men constituted a regular unit and how long they had been in service.

The major explained all were members of the 119th Anti-Aircraft Unit stationed at Gordon Head and that most of the guardsmen had been in the army only nine months.

Science Progresses

For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called 'DISPRIN' and is sold at druggists everywhere.

'DISPRIN' is available in Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Packet Folders of 8.

"Headache?..take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief. DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

ABOUT PEOPLE AND THINGS—Murphy Chamberlain may be the coach of the last-place Canucks of the Pacific Coast Hockey League but he can't recognize a hockey team when he sees one. . . . When Murphy's Quakers were nipped by the Quakers' other night, he said the Quakers would win a few games before the season was out. . . . What happened? . . . The Quakers win three in a row. . . . It's too bad Murphy has to go out of town to see a hockey team. . . .

Roger Leger still has the answer for Tony Hemmerling's Seattle Ironmen. . . . "You hit those guys once or twice and they don't come back no more." And the Quakers can do a little quaking, too. . . . Victoria City is still on the suspended list. . . . and do you know the latest? . . . The district League has barred its players from practising with United. . . . This is one ruling that won't stand up. . . . Frank Grealey may be the guinea pig. . . . He should be commended for his action. . . .

Hank Rowe is returning to the cage wars again with Individuals. . . . Congratulations to Duncan's Wilf Cain on being elected B.C. hoop prexy. . . . There couldn't have been a better choice. . . . Larry Chapman was at the helm too long. . . . Cedric Robb is one of the most improved players on United and if he can't conquer his own apparent weakness, he would be the best left winger on the coast. If he isn't already. . . . Ab just can't put that ball in the net often enough. . . . He certainly gets the chances. . . . And what was this rumor about Wally Milligan being deposed as United coach? . . . Surely, the boys can iron out their troubles in some other way. . . .

George Steele was banished from Saturday's Coast League match for calling referee Ed Ball a "stupid idiot." . . . Tut! Tut! . . . What language. . . . Cougars hit their roughest schedule early next month. . . . 11 games in 17 days. . . . Some United shareholders are still wondering why last year's books will be ready for audit. . . . United this year is governed by a committee of three—George Eade, manager Tommy Restell and Milligan. . . . Eddie Mazur is at Buffalo with Stan Long. . . . Normie Kirk and Hermie Gruba have been released by New Westminster Royals. . . . It would be interesting if this year's P.C.H.L. scoring race develops into a battle between Eddie and Ollie Dorohoy. . . . but don't count on it. . . . Arena manager Joe Dukowski is willing to schedule basketball games in the Arena if enough interest is shown in the sport or Individuals are good enough to warrant that interest being shown. . . . Still the best four-bit show in town is the Commercial Hockey League which opens tomorrow night. . . .

Recently returned from a trip to his native heath, Alex McKee sat in the directors' box at one soccer game he saw. . . . He had previously been turned down for tickets but when it was learned he was from Canada, he was treated royally. . . . Son Tommy has been reported signing newest offspring Alexander Stuart to a lacrosse form. . . . Guess Ernie Fox has really hung up his basketball sneakers for good. . . . and after how many years, Ernie? . . . In town is Bob Jealousie, former Times stereotyper, with new wife. . . .

Bill McDougall has been named United Press Rookie of the Year in the American League. . . . and to think that he became a Yankee after Ted Norbert didn't think he was good enough for the W.L.L. . . . And what about those Canucks. . . . they're only three games shy of the Cougars' record of 15 games without a victory. . . .

Baseball Appears To Be A Paying Proposition

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The congressional committee probing organized baseball today placed in its hearing records a batch of statistics dealing with baseball finance.

Here are some of the exhibits: As of July 1, 1950, the payrolls of major league clubs:

American: Boston $450,000; Chicago $262,500; Cleveland $376,700; Detroit $452,500; New York $488,500; Philadelphia $261,000; St. Louis $172,750; Washington $272,250. National: Boston $344,800; Brooklyn $357,500; Chicago $254,250; Cincinnati $226,600; New York $349,000; Philadelphia $323,000; Pittsburgh $295,000; St. Louis $385,500.

The total American-National League player payrolls amounted to $5,291,850, as of July 1, 1950.

The three triple-A leagues, consisting of 24 teams and 541 players, amounted to $474,156 monthly with individual salaries ranging from $200 to $4,000.

The Pacific Coast League's total was $182,870 monthly, International League $143,170 and the American Association, $148,116.

The two double-A leagues, consisting of 16 clubs and 320 players, amounted to $205,804 monthly. The salary ranged from $300 to $4,200 monthly.

The Southern Association's monthly payroll was $97,471 and the Texas League $108,333.

Of the four A leagues, the committee had only these figures for two of them: Eastern League, $96,111 monthly, and Western League, $90,395. The salary range was from $100 to $1,555 monthly.

And here are the league incomes from the clubs for the 1950 season:

American National League $2,234,466 $4,678,270 Road games $2,358,850 $4,714,986 Exhibitions $38,767 $23,374 Radio-Television $2,565,968 $2,783,479 Concessions $1,397,214 $1,869,083 Total income $6,534,915 $13,069,242 Total expenses $5,464,289 $12,858,450

Thunderbird Asks Rematch

Chief Thunderbird, the pride of Saanich peninsula, has demanded a return wrestling match with logger Jack MacDonald. In Saturday's match, MacDonald won over the hatchet-carrying grappler in a best of three falls bout.

When the ex-logger won, however, Thunderbird and the fans felt they had been robbed and raised a big squawk.

So no doubt there will be lots of action at the Bay Street Armories on Saturday when these two meet.

YOU CAN'T BEAT THE HOURS

And Think Of The Dough

By BILL HOLLAND Here's a bedtime story for all you little kiddies who want to be big, strong wrestlers. Once upon a time there was a wrestler named Logger Jack MacDonald. Logger Jack started wrestling in logging camps when he was the age of 13, and at the ripe old age of 19, was wrestling professionally.

Since then, at one time or another, he has had practically every bone in his body broken. About six years ago, when he was wrestling in Calgary, MacDonald received a cracked disc in his vertebrae. Doctors told him he would never fight again.

So Jack went back to his farm in Michigan and worked his crops. After the short time of approximately two years Jack got tired of sitting around and went back to wrestling, more or less to see what would happen to his back. Nothing did.

As a professional, MacDonald got his first actual wrestling lessons off the great Strangler Ed Lewis. In Jack's opinion, Lewis was the greatest wrestler ever to step into a ring.

Being a villain in most of his bouts, MacDonald is considered to be a dirty fighter by the majority of fight fans. Jack doesn't mind this a bit, because Strangler Lewis once told him that the spectators never forget a "dirty" wrestler.

MacDonald claims that he isn't actually "dirty," but that being brought up in a logging camp, he is just rough.

Easier in his wrestling career, he held three titles, including the world junior heavyweight title.

Logger Jack has been all over the world, and is now living in Seattle with his wife and family. There is one type of wrestler that Jack doesn't have much use

Will Raise Commercial League Curtain

When the Commercial Hockey League begins its new season at Memorial Arena Wednesday night, these three players will be there to lend a helping hand. Ron Bremner (left) will be doing double duty with Mike Leachman's Capitals. Not only will he be holding down a centre slot but he is also coaching the club this season.

High-scoring Norm LaCree (centre) will join Bremner on Capitals' forward line. LaCree was a member of the championship Fishermans Co-Op club last season. Smooth-skating Steve Harris (right) will be wearing a Victoria Merchants' sweater this year. Harris previously played with Navy and Civil Service.

Crystal Ball Gazers To Have Big Night At Arena

Oh Well, What's 10 G's Anyway?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (UP)—The House subcommittee took Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio down a peg today—about 10,000 financial pegs, to be exact. The "come-down" came when congressional baseball investigators revealed that the top salary paid to any player in 1951 was $90,000. Williams, the 33-year-old Red Sox star, generally was reported to have received $100,000 the past season as was DiMaggio, the 36-year-old Yankee veteran.

Heaneys Dump Combines In Soccer Upset

Heaneys soccer team defeated Victoria Combines 3-0 Sunday to further consolidate their hold on second place in the first division in the Vancouver Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer League.

F. Evans scored the first goal in the upset over the league leaders with Gary Webster and George Henn clinching it with second-half markers.

At Duncan Sunday, a fighting Victoria College team was downed 4-2 by the Duncan Junior Natives when a second half rally fell short. Winners took a 3-0 lead in the first half but Vikings outscored them 2-1 in the second half.

The closest game of the weekend was supplied by the second division Sunday when Army, Navy, and Air Force Vets battled to a 3-3 draw with Harris Cycles at Hampton Road.

The bike-men, leaders of the second division took the lead in the first half on a goal by Bryce but Harrison tied it up when he scored for the Vets. In the second half Cycles went ahead again on Peterson's goal but Vets' left-winger, Boston tied it up. With only minutes left, Todd scored what appeared to be the winning goal for Cycles but Davis found the help for Vets to force the deadlock.

In the fourth division, Mike Macs scored an impressive 2-0 win over St. Louis College. Buddy McLaren scored both goals.

Will Navy live up to its reputation as the "senior service" by beating Army or will the soldiers' two starry goalkeepers spike the sailors' guns?

Which of the two freshman coaches, Al Senior of Civil Service and Ron Bremner of Capitals, will make his coaching debut in the Commercial Hockey League a winning one?

Will the youthful exuberance of Dick Irving's Individual Cleaners prove of more value than the savvy of Jim Lackie, manager of Victoria Merchants?

Don't scratch your head too long over these questions, take the easy way out. Be at Memorial Arena Wednesday evening when the Commercial Hockey League takes the strings and wrappings of a brand new, super deluxe season. The unveiling ceremonies are slated to commence at 7.

Civil Service has a strong contingent from last year's team and a new and ambitious manager in the person of Bill Oliver. The Capitals are managed by Mike Leachman and coached by Ron Bremner who was a player for the club last season. The G-Men and Caps have the honor of kicking the season off at 7.

THE CLOSEST COMPETITOR TO Mrs. Painter was Mrs. H. Yeaton with a score of 84 2-3.

Mrs. J. Brown won the special competition for women golfers who reduced their handicaps between March and October this year with a net 82. Runner-up was Mrs. Margaret Mahoney with a net 86.

Low net score for the first nine holes and the second nine holes was scored by Mrs. W. Cotton and Mrs. V. Kircher, respectively. Prizes were donated by Mrs. H. Lawson.

Golfers who had reduced their handicaps the most during the eight-month period were awarded prizes by Mrs. R. L. Pocock. These included Darlene Woodburn and Dolly Goldsmith.

SAYS TEAM CAN WIN

British Ryder Cup Captain Confident

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP)—Arthur Lacey, non-playing captain of the British Ryder Cup golf team, knows how it feels to beat the Americans—and he thinks it can be done again this year.

Lacey led his 10 operatives off the Queen Mary yesterday and wasted little time in predicting that the Britons could win the international golf matches scheduled for Pinehurst, N.C., November 2 and 4.

The British team has captured the cup only twice in eight meetings with the United States, and Lacey was a member of one of the teams—the 1933 group which beat the Americans, 6½-5½.

The other triumph by the Britons was in 1929. Both victories were in Britain. The series was inaugurated in 1927.

Lacey said he thought it was possible for the British to win.

Canucks Rolling Fast-Downhill

Lose To Stampeders; McNeil Quits

Vancouver Canucks moved on mournfully to Edmonton today, still looking for their first Pacific Coast Hockey League victory.

Last night's 4-0 blanking by the Stampede at Calgary lengthened their winless waltz to nine games. They have tied three, lost six.

The victory lifted Calgary into a fifth-place tie with Tacoma Rockets, who have played one more game.

Russ Derrell's shutout was the third in the league this season.

Next game, tonight: Vancouver at Edmonton.

Lorne Worsley of Saskatoon and Lucien Dechene of New Westminster have the others.

Bob Goodacre scored twice in the first period, Eddie Leier made it 3-0 in the second and Mitch Pechee finished things off in the third.

Vancouver plays at Edmonton tonight, at Saskatoon Wednesday.

McNEIL GOES HOME

Meanwhile on the Cougars' front, it was announced by general manager Fred Hutchinson that Dugger McNeil had turned down an offer to sign a professional contract.

McNeil, property of Montreal Canadiens, came to the Cougars on a three-day trial basis. He was offered a contract by Frank Seike, general manager of the Canadiens, Monday, but rejected it. He has left the club for Montreal.

McNeil's decision leaves the Cougars with 15 men, Dewar Thompson having left for the east Saturday. However, it was revealed that a deal is in the making for another defenseman. No names were mentioned.

SEEK RECORD

The Cougars travel to Seattle Wednesday to meet the Ironmen. A Cougar win or tie will give them a new league record for consecutive games at home and on the road without defeat.

The Cougars have 11 at the moment, six last year and five this season.

VANCOUVER & CALGARY I First period: 1. Calgary, Goodacre (Miller), 6:52; 2. Calgary, Goodacre, 16:56. Penalties: Beardon (16), Conway (6:53), Shultz (19:35).

Second period: 1. Calgary, Leier (Wilder, Larson), 5:34. Penalties: Shultz (14:51), Groves (18:39).

Third period: 4. Calgary, Pechee (Shultz), 19:02. Penalties: Beardon (11:22), Shultz (12:59), Conway (12:37).

Red Wings Back In N.H.L. Lead

MONTREAL, Oct. 23 (UP)—Veteran Sid Abel and young Terry Sawchuk turned in a top-flight two-man show Monday night that gave the Detroit Red Wings undisputed possession of the National Hockey League lead.

Abel scored twice in Detroit's 3-1 victory over Montreal and Sawchuk, barely missing his third straight shutout, kicked out 44 Canadian shots that were headed for his net, missing only Doug Harvey's 10-footer on a facemask during the third period.

Abel took Bob Goldham's pass and fired over goalie Gerry McNeil's stick for the Wings' first goal. It was Abel again in the second period on a pass from Red Kelly this time—while Gordie Howe was credited with Detroit's third goal in the last period.

Summary follows:

DETROIT 3, CANADIENS 1 Detroit—Goal: Sawchuk; defense: Goldham, Wot, Kelly, Prosser, Zende, Forham, Abel, Howe, Lindsay, Lewick, Prchal, Pavlich, Skot, L. Wilson, J. Wilson, Glover.

Montreal—Goal: McNeil; defense: McPherson, Bouchard, Lowe, Johnson, Vardi, Lach, Richard, Gaudreau, Monro, Meier, MacIsaac, McCracken, MacKay, Gamble, Curry.

First Period—1. Detroit, Abel (Goldham), 43. Penalties: MacKay (1:15), Abel (7:11), Shoudt (15:46), Lewick (19:44), Abel (19:49).

Second Period—2. Detroit, Abel (Kelly), 14:25. Penalties: Zende (6:29).

Third Period—3. Montreal, Harvey (Richard, Lach), 14:4. Detroit, Glover (Howe), 3:57. Penalties: Lowe (12:22), Harvey (13:27), Prosser (18:39), Lach (18:20), Lewick (18:20).

There will be a workout at the James Bay Athletic Club tonight at 7 for members of the James Bay Boxing Club. Any youngsters who wish to join the club are invited to attend.

CONTRACTOR HIRES HELP on investment problems!

"How many things can one man look after? I used to worry about investments and all their complicated details when I should have been concentrating on some important construction project.

"Finally, my own business gave me an idea. I realized that I had to hire competent people to get a job done. So, why shouldn't I hire an expert to look after my outside financial interests?

A friend suggested the Montreal Trust. That company has taken over my investment problems. Now I'm free to give all my attention to my contracting business."

BOUDREAU WILL SELL BIG TED IF NECESSARY

BOSTON, Oct. 22 (AP).—Every member of Boston's disappointing Red Sox, Ted Williams included, was threatened with the trading block today when Lou Boudreau signed a two-year contract as the club's bench manager.

"We need an established catcher and a good double-play combination and we'll trade anyone to get them," Boudreau said after being introduced as Steve O'Neill's managerial successor by general manager Joe Cronin.

The latter said O'Neill, whose club wilted in the recent American League home stretch drive and wound up third, would be retained in the Red Sox organization and assigned to its farm system.

"Do you rate Williams as expendable?" was the first question fired at Boudreau after Cronin announced the long anticipated managerial switch.

"Yes," Boudreau answered.

CAPS LOOK STRONG Silent Mike May Be Big Noise Of Loop

Mike Leachman is a quiet sort of a guy.

For the past couple of weeks, the managers of the various Commercial Hockey League teams have been tooting horns and pounding drums for their teams and predicting what mighty things those teams would do come the league-opener tomorrow night.

Not so Mike Leachman, manager of the Caps.

He just sat back with a quizzical expression on his face and listened to the reports of other teams.

But it is often the case that these quiet types come up with something that upsets everybody's old apple cart. Mike may have no exception.

WHO IS JEFFERY?

Concerning reports that he has signed Herb Jeffery, one of Canada's outstanding junior players, Mike says only this: "Truthfully, Jeffery has never been out with us once, and while I would like to have him if he is as good as people have been saying he is, I have never seen or heard of him."

"If I had the line-up that I hear I have, I could walk through this league."

Getting down to the players that he does have, the most important is probably Ron Bremner, the quietly efficient playing coach for the Caps this year.

Bremner's playing ability as centre is well known to Victoria fans and he should be invaluable to the Caps this season.

LACREE SIGNS

Also signed is Norm LaCree, who was a member of the potent Fishermen's Co-Op line last year of LaCree, Ed Varga and Max Swanson who finished one, two, three in the individual scoring record. LaCree has been signed and Leachman hopes that the presence of LaCree in the line-up will entice Varga back to Victoria. Varga is currently residing in Calgary and his only word on his hockey plans for the year is that he wants to play on the same team as LaCree.

Leachman may be forced to alternate his goal-keepers during the season due to the fact that he has two of outstanding ability fighting for the spot. The two are Don Hogan from Flin Flon Bombers and Phil Bremner, Ron's cousin, who performed with Prince Albert last season.

RUGGED DEFENSE

A sure starter at one defense

MISS HELENA HOWE

NEW VICTORIANS

A small woman with blue eyes, white hair, a cheery smile and a zest for what makes people tick has moved to 2473 Currie Street from Ottawa.

She brings with her a citation signed by the Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance, gifts from co-workers and yeasty memories of a crowded 34 years with the department. Her name is Helena Howe.

Born at Lunenburg, N.S., she started to work for the Department of Finance at an early age during the First World War. She has served under seven ministers.

"Ministers of Finance used to wear frock coats, striped pants and a lot of stiff dignity," she told me. "Douggy" is a business-man, dresses and acts like one. No formality."

For the last 20 years she has run the clipping service of the department. "It was the nearest I could get to newspaper work," she said. "My father was a newsman."

The clipping service is important to the department, she told me. "It mirrors the country; shows up kinks."

"Tell me about some interesting items you've clipped?"

She grinned. "All Bruce Hutchison's nonsense."

"Everyone wanted his stuff. Mrs. Noggins often puts over a point no one else can."

In Victoria she plans to take up the study of anthropology, archeology and psychology and maybe do a bit of writing.

Claims Mig Pilots Speak Russian

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (UP).—Gen Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, said today that "Russian-speaking pilots are flying Russian-built Mig jets in combat over Korea."

He refused, however, to "go so far" as to say that the pilots were definitely Russians.

Vandenberg said only that pilots speaking the Russian language had been heard by United Nations pilots and monitoring stations over interplane radio frequencies in Korea.

There have been recurrent reports that Russian pilots were venturing from Soviet-controlled Manchuria into northern Korea, but Vandenberg's statement was the first official comment on the possibility that the Soviet Migs might also be piloted by Russians.

Although Vandenberg was tight-lipped on definitely tabbing the pilots as Russians, an air force spokesman commented:

"Russian is a damn hard language to learn. And it would be even harder to teach a Chinaman than anyone else."

Vandenberg refused to comment on the possibility that pilots of nationalities other than Russian or Chinese might be flying the Red fighter planes.

Based on the tactics followed by enemy pilots over "Mig Alley" in Korea, U.S. pilots have theorized that they might be tangling with former Nazi pilots recruited by the Russians. There also have been reports that Russia is forming an international brigade of pilots in northern Manchuria.

Really Fresh coffee for the first time

Have you ever actually tasted fresh coffee?

Really fresh? Freshly roasted! Fresh from the grinder!

There's nothing quite like it. This week your SAFEWAY

Store is featuring freshly roasted Nob Hill Coffee—freshly ground when you buy it. Don't miss it.

Nob Hill is a costly coffee to begin with

There is no finer blend. It's your kind of coffee. It's the same quality you are accustomed to. The same flavor, too—only there's more of it. Some of the world's choicest coffee beans are blended in Nob Hill. And that's just what you get...

fresh-roasted WHOLE COFFEE BEANS. You see, Nob Hill is not factory-ground, weeks before you get it. That's why Nob Hill tastes fresher and costs less.

You KNOW it's fresh when you grind it yourself

To begin with, Nob Hill comes to you weeks sooner than other coffees... that means weeks fresher. Nob Hill whole coffee beans are rushed fresh from the roasting ovens to your SAFEWAY Store. There you'll find a handy coffee mill. When you flip the switch, it delivers the freshest coffee in town. Freshly roasted!

Freshly ground! It's so fresh you can "taste" it. Also, it's ground precisely for your coffee maker. You have a choice of FOUR grinds. And because you grind it yourself, you save 4¢ or more on every pound. Simple, isn't it?

Be "coffee-wise"

Rain, Wind Didn't Dampen Children's Welcome

His name was Johnny. Johnny represented hundreds of small school children, not more than three feet high, who stood bare-legged in the rain and wind-swept streets to greet Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip touring the city Monday afternoon.

Johnny didn't mind waiting in the cold for almost an hour to see the Princess and the Prince of her dreams. He simplified the matter of keeping warm by hopping or jumping on the sidewalk with his school mates.

Nature gave Johnny the most powerful pair of lungs and vocal chords she could design.

He proved this when the Royal car came into view. A thousand shrill and piercing cheers rose from the throats of the children.

Johnny looked a little perturbed at first. Where was he to come in on this? He took a deep breath, threw out his chest and with all the force he could muster bellowed:

"You're my princess!"

PRINCESS HEARD

His voice like a sharp knife penetrated the shouts of the crowd, floated to the ears of the princess.

She turned and sweetly smiled acknowledgment.

Johnny beamed delightedly.

Over 17,000 school children of Greater Victoria, from tiny tots to teen-agers, gave the most spontaneous, demonstrative welcome yet accorded here to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

A cold rain and near-gale did not dampen their enthusiasm. They cheered lustily and with delight, outdoing all other demonstrations of loyalty in this city.

WILD WITH EXCITEMENT

Enthusiasm surged out of bounds at points along Yates Street where the majority of school children were assembled to welcome the Royal couple. To the onlooker it was one of the wildest sights.

Milling hundreds of children broke through the police lines and surged towards the Royal car which moved slowly down the street.

BROKE SCOUT LINE

Motorcycle police intervened. At another point a Boy Scout cordon broke under the pressure of the masses of children. They bore down on the Royal car like a mighty river, practically engulfing the Princess and Prince before they were swept aside.

Other children, waving flags, ran wildly after the Royal car to get another glimpse of the smiling heir to the Throne.

One youth leaped in front of the car, snapped a picture, and jumped out of the vehicle's path just in time.

PUSHED INTO STREET

There were minor incidents. Some of the smaller children were pushed into the street by the elder ones, and got lost in the crowd. Teachers, police and parents had to search for them.

Yates Street was so filled with milling children at some points that it would have been possible to have walked alongside the royal car without being noticed by the police guards.

CHEERFUL DESPITE RAIN

The majority of school children were lined up along Yates Street an hour before the procession came into view. They stood cheerfully in the cold rain and seemed unconcerned about the weather.

While many children were warmly dressed, there were hundreds in shorts, with bare knees. Some were without raincoats and hats, and clutched school books under their arms. The school teachers looked the most uncomfortable.

But despite the discomforts, the children all wore smiles, laughed and joked while waiting for their big moment. And when that big moment came, they gave the royal couple a most ecstatic reception.

OAK BAY GREETING

School children jamming the sidewalks for blocks along Cadboro Bay Road, from the intersection of Cranmore Road, sent an ear-splitting roar across the wind Monday afternoon when their princess and prince went by.

For as long as two hours they had waited while cold, wind-driven rain dampened everything, but their enthusiasm. They jostled each other, and pulled jackets and sweaters up over their heads. The younger ones took to jumping up and down in unison. Some older girls practised solo dance steps on the curb, all in an effort to keep warm.

Anything that went by was good enough to cause a roar of shouting and flag-waving before the Royal motorcade arrived.

Anxious adults among the children tried to reduce the damage being done by the pelting rain, by holding umbrellas over the youngsters while their own heads were unprotected.

One hatless man partially solved his own problem by jamming a large paper bag on his head, giving him a tall chef-style headpiece. Nobody seemed to think it funny.

RAIN STOPS, LEAVES FALL

Timing of the Royal Couple's arrival at Cranmore and Cadboro Bay Roads turned out to be just right. As their car turned the corner into full view of the children, the rain stopped.

The wind, already brisk, sent a whirling gust through some pear trees beside the road, tore a mass of dried leaves loose, and showered them like brown confetti on the Royal car.

While the motorcade proceeded slowly along the road, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, smiling and waving to the school children, took away the sting of the rain and the biting wind for the cheering throng.

Shouts, cheers and whistles accompanied frantic waving of sodden flags. The line of cars passed slowly, and it was over.

Hot baths will take away the chill of the soaking rain, but nothing will take away the warm memory.

In Esquimalt more hundreds of school children waited in the rain to see the Royal Couple.

Over 2,000 youngsters from eight different schools were in position on Lamson Street an hour before the Princess passed. Children from Esquimalt High, Lamson Street, Victoria West, View Royal, Milnes Landing, Bear Creek, Langford and Muir Creek schools waited in the rain. The Royal Couple arrived 30 minutes late.

Practically every child, with the exception of those from the high school, carried a flag of some sort. From the time they lined up in front of Lamson Street School until the time the Royal couple arrived, they waved their flags and cheered.

Up and down the road, before the procession arrived, parents, carrying raincoats under their arms, looked for their children.

SCREAMED GREETING

More than 4,000 Saanich, Salt Spring and James Island school children screamed a greeting at the sight of their Princess.

The youngsters were already at fever pitch as the escort hove into view, and cheered lustily for the first few cars.

But when the car bearing Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip passed, they shouted their heads off.

And the Princess? She appeared a little bewildered at the reception, but wore a faint smile. Her husband was his usual debonair self, and waved smartly to the children and their teachers.

The school children had almost an hour to wait. Most were in place at the corner of Cloverdale and Quadra at 2.20 p.m., and jumped, danced and sang to keep warm until the visit at 3.10.

IMPROMPTU PARADE

During the long wait the youngsters were entertained by a brass and pipe band of Mount View High School. The pipers staged an impromptu parade, led by Stirling Knudsen and Ken Murray carrying the school banner, and pretty majorettes Elinor

Thompson, Jaginder Bains and Rita Crossley.

Heavy traffic of buses bearing children from outlying points of the Saanich peninsula, and cars of adult spectators, was kept moving by Sgt. Cecil Pearce and Const. Dave Shepherd.

The children greeted a city traffic patrol car bearing Cont. D. G. Grant and Norman Galbraith with lusty but good-natured boos.

HONEY WEEK

Once a year, honey is given its place in the sun. This year, during National Honey Week, Oct. 22 to 28, honey will assume its rightful place beside other fall foods.

It is during this time that the wonder of honey comes to mind. Indeed it is a wonder that the tiny honeybee can produce as golden a treasure as honey.

For honey is rich with many treasures.

It boasts of a unique and delicious flavor that changes with the flower the honeybee visits. It is made up of simple sugars, which means that its energy is very easily released for a quick pick-up. It has small amounts of vitamins and minerals such as iron, phosphorus, copper, sodium, potassium, manganese, calcium and magnesium. These materials help to supply the total needed in the day's diet.

It has the ability to retain moisture, which makes it a joy to the cook who uses it in her baking to keep her cakes and cookies fresh longer.

It is so easily digested. These treasures are all to be had by the housewife for the price of a pound of honey. This golden sweet is now plentiful on the shelves of your local grocer.

Tour Of Stars Good Stunt But Rated 'Dismal Flop'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 20 (AP)—Most of Hollywood's ambassadors at-large returned home this week and added fuel to the great debate about the worth of movietime U.S.A.

The week-long tour of movie-makers has been called both "the greatest public-relations stunt in the history of the industry" and "a dismal flop."

Some areas were bitterly disappointed by small-fry personalities who appeared for the events.

There was other evidence of mismanagement, such as that which angered a Boston crowd and provoked the tossing of a time at Dorothy Lamour.

Many theatre men complained that the big stars who promised to appear never showed up. Now there is talk of a tour next year and the necessity to cajole or whip major stars into hitting the road.

BACK TO NORMAL

Meanwhile, the town returns to its normal functions of making pictures. One wonders if the errors of the past are ever studied for profit in the future. This week I heard of a color musical filmed in 28 days. To meet this schedule, the director seldom permitted more than one take. When the finished product was assembled, the producer was horrified and returned the film for expensive retakes.

There's another picture at a big studio which was shot in 40 days. The results were so poor that the film went back for 50 days of retakes.

I visited one movie queen recently on the set of her new picture. As she came out of a scene, she confided, "This is the worst picture I have ever made. If audiences can take this, they can take anything."

Certificates Presented To Music Pupils

"Let us not forget what we owe to the old land in fostering our Canadian culture out of their rich treasure of tradition and long experience," Dr. F. T. Fairley, deputy minister and superintendent of education, said Saturday night.

He was speaking to a capacity audience of music students and where-in-the-Church-Cathedral Memorial Hall. The event was one discontinued for many years and now revived by the Royal Schools of Music, Victoria Association; a public presentation of more than 150 certificates and diplomas to successful students in the 1951 Associated Board of the Royal School of Music (London) examinations.

He congratulated Miss Elsie Friend, president of the Victoria Association, and Miss Mary Adamson, secretary, and thanked the young artists who contributed the excellent program of piano and vocal numbers. These were Richard Drysdale, Lorraine Brand, Vivian Trimble, L.R.S.M. and Marion Gibbs, L.R.S.M. pianists, and Dorothy-Mae Charles, L.R.S.M., soprano.

In addition to the certificates, Richard Drysdale was presented with the Victoria association's prize for receiving the highest distinction marks in Grade 6 piano in Greater Victoria.

THEN

Start today to help build up new nerve force, energy and vitality by following a regular plan to improve your health. Plenty of fresh air, regular hours of rest and exercise are essential. But, to regain lost ground, give your system the extra help it is almost sure to need.

HOW?

Begin the Dr. Chase six week Nerve Food plan NOW. Benefits are often felt almost immediately. This proven formula of Vitamin B1, iron, and other essential minerals will help to build up your nerves to a new quiet strength; will help you to rest better; will help to improve your appetite so that you are waiting eagerly for every meal.

The six week plan requires six small boxes, ($4.74), or two large boxes, ($9.96), of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Take according to directions. If at the end of 6 weeks, you are not delighted with how much better you feel, return promptly to Dept. A, Dr. Chase Medicine Co. Ltd., Oakville, Ont., six direction sheets from the small boxes, or two top carion flaps from the large size. We will send $10.00. (more than twice the cost), directly to you. And we earnestly suggest that you consult your Doctor.

START NOW

Our files contain thousands of case histories showing the benefits obtained by taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. In many of these cases, results were obtained in 21 to 28 days. You owe it to yourself and your family to get started on this helpful home plan right away. Either we pay you DOUBLE the cost of the plan or you find it's worth ten times the cost to you to enjoy better health — with more relaxing rest — better appetite and increased rest for life.

Children Wait In Rain As Protocol Observed

TOPICS of the TIMES

The police said "thanks" to the public today for co-operation during the royal visit.

Police Chief John Blackstock and Deputy Chief Harry Mercer said their job of handling the biggest crowds the city has seen was made easier by the orderliness of the people.

This is no holiday for Victoria College.

Classes were being held as usual, including evening instruction periods, the registrar announced.

Illustrative material, photographs and booklets to aid in giving lessons on British Columbia to a class of Liverpool school-boys were sought from the city clerk's office today.

A. Ayrton, 32 Stanley Avenue, Birkdale, Southport, England, wrote asking for material on industries and resources.

The "fish-pole thief" is on the prowl again.

He left his "tackle"—a pole with a coat hanger hook—after reaching through an open window at Luxor Manor, Cook and Richardson, to snare Miss Doris Bailey's purse, police reported.

Purse contained $5 and personal papers.

It was later found at Athletic Park. Yes; the money was gone.

Mariners are advised that anti-aircraft firing practice will be carried out from the vicinity of Albert Head Friday from 10 to 12 noon and from 1 to 3. Practice will be conducted seawards in an area bounded by Race Rocks and Brodie Ledge and the danger area will extend for 11 miles.

Royal visit photographs are being sought by the city.

City Clerk Frank Hunter appealed today for photos from persons willing to donate them for the city archives.

City Council was advised today of a postponement until Nov. 22 for the B.C.E. Bly. Co. public hearing.

The hearing is on an application of the company for increase in the return allowed by the Public Utilities Commission on appraised value of property of the company and its subsidiaries.

Because the views of management and labor are so well represented, everyone gets a fair treatment from the Labor Relations Board, Labor Minister John Cates said in a radio talk Monday night.

The minister reviewed the years leading up to the establishment of the board. He said it was primarily because of the hardships on labor due to industrial strife that the board was set up.

Prince Grabs Jackie's Gift Without Stop

Pretty Jacqueline Walker was just about the happiest 16-year-old school girl in these parts Monday afternoon.

Jackie—as she is known to her friends—had a chance to present to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip a bouquet of flowers as they drove along Admirals Road. The flowers were a gift from the Esquimalt branch of the Canadian Legion.

Jackie was selected to do the honors because her father was lost in October, 1940, when H.M.C.S. Margaree was sunk in the North Atlantic.

Jackie stood with members of the Esquimalt Legion in the pouring rain, waiting for the Royal cavalcade of cars to come along. As the procession was delayed, she feared for a time that the cars would drive by so fast she wouldn't have a chance to present her flowers.

She did, though. The car slowed down to a snail's pace as it passed the veterans and Jackie was able to go forward and hand her flowers to smiling Prince Philip. He gave her a big "thank you," turned and waved a gay goodbye.

Rainfall Not So Bad As Chill Crowd Felt

Parade watchers in Victoria on Monday may have felt they were up to their ears in rainwater; but no.

Total rainfall recorded at Gonzales Observatory was just .27 inches.

The raw wind that made the rain feel so much worse was certainly not just imagination. Gusts up to 52 miles an hour were recorded.

The weather was far worse at sea.

The weather ship Stonetown, 860 miles due west, reported winds in excess of 60 m.p.h. and waves over 40 feet.

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Torrents of rain and protocol combined to give Victoria children a beating on the royal tour Monday.

Thousands, including 17,000 from schools alone, stood, well over an hour in the pouring rain and chill winds for their momentary view of a story-book couple.

"Precedence" throughout the day took its toll of royal time, just as in other parts of Canada.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh shook 193 official hands at three presentations.

Presentation of 31 persons at City Hall during a 25-minute ceremony.

Presentation of 116 legislators, their wives and various officials and their wives at the Legislature.

Presentation of 46, including the church and judiciary at Empress Hotel before the government luncheon.

GOOD, LONG LOOK

In addition to being in the Royal presence during various official ceremonies, many of those presented also saw the Princess and Duke throughout the government luncheon.

To the 3,000 Scouts, Guides, Brownies, Cubs and Rovers who lined Rockland Avenue Sunday night for a fleeting glimpse of the handsome couple—their moment or two will seem pretty small after Monday's official ceremonies.

HALF HOUR FOR KIDDIES

In their eight-hour tour of duty Monday the hard-working couple had one-half hour for the school children, the only section of Canada's population which the Princess expressly asked to meet.

The school drive, while it began at the Empress Hotel, was scheduled to take one hour originally, but only one-half hour was to have elapsed from the first school group to the fourth and last embracing close to 16,000 children in all.

A trip to take in the Veterans' Hospital resulted in a change in schedule, but no extra time for the children.

As the wave of criticism reached a roar at Winnipeg some local officials were cautiously approached on the subject.

CAST IRON SCHEDULE

"They cannot visit a city without calling at city hall, remarked one official, quickly.

"Besides changes could not be made overnight in plans. They have been approved."

Apparently the same held true for the legislative buildings. The officials had the much-coveted honor of "being presented."

Maybe the children understand the situation.

They will have today to talk it over, for it is a holiday from school, in honor of the Royal visit.

Mass Burial For Victims Of Plane Crash

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP)—The unidentified and unclaimed dead of the Mt. Benson plane crash will be buried in a Nanaimo cemetery Thursday.

An all-denominational graveside service will be held, Queen Charlotte Airlines officials announced here today.

All occupants of the plane—three crew members and 20 passengers—were killed last Wednesday when the two-motored amphibian crashed into the side of Mt. Benson, near Nanaimo, while on a flight from Kamano, B.C., to Vancouver.

A number of the bodies have been identified and claimed by relatives who have arranged, or are arranging, private funeral services.

NAVY SAYS IT'S SORRY

Ardent Commissionaire Said 'No' To Newsmen

The navy apologized to the press Monday night.

It all started earlier in the afternoon when a member of the Corps of Commissionaires prevented a newsreel cameraman from "shooting" H.M.C.S. Crusader at H.M.C. Dockyard.

The incident resulted in a majority of the newsmen, who were taken to Dockyard in an official bus, refusing to cover that section of the show.

"At a press conference several hours later, Capt. L. L. Atwood, chief of staff to the flag officer, Pacific Coast, apologized to the press for "a most regrettable incident."

He said the newsreel cameraman (Ross Beasley, Associated Screen News) had been given permission to go into the area by Lieut. William Patton, dockyard public relations officer, "and rightly so."

Genial Walter S. Thompson, chief press officer for the tour, said it was just one of those incidents which happen when everyone is trying to do a good job.

Howard Anderson, of the Toronto Star, related a similar incident.

Later, Lt.-Cmdr. Wm. Clayards, dockyard security officer, explained to newsmen that the commissionaires had acted according to regulations. But the way had

Name Judge Shandley Royal Commissioner

To Investigate Sanger Death

Judge H. H. Shandley of Victoria's County Court has been appointed a one-man Royal Commission to investigate the death in Oakalla Prison recently of Daniel Sanger, Victoria.

Sanger died while awaiting trial on a charge of murdering a Victoria woman.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said today counsel for the Royal Commission will be Alan MacLean, K.C., assistant deputy attorney-general.

The R.C.M.P. asked Wismer to appoint a Royal Commission on the matter last week.

Sanger died after being taken from Victoria City Police jail to Oakalla Prison. Wismer has said there was no negligence on the part of the R.C.M.P. the Oakalla staff or hospital staff.

City police officials claimed the prisoner was the responsibility of the R.C.M.P. because he was awaiting trial in a higher court.

Fred McNeil, Vancouver Daily Province, was elected president of the Legislative Press Gallery at a special meeting today.

Lawrie Joslin, Colonist, was elected secretary-treasurer.

TIME AND ROYAL CARAVAN WAIT FOR NO NEWSFOLK

The moral to this story is: When you get a chance to ride in a Cadillac instead of a jalopy, stay in the back seat.

One group of newspaper folk was riding in what might be termed "unaccustomed style" in the posh royal motorcade Monday afternoon—in a shiny green Cadillac, with a competent, pleasant, army driver, push-button windows and lots of leg room.

There was only one gimmick. The driver had orders to move at a moment's notice, no matter what passengers he inadvertently left behind.

Two reporters left the car to see the inspection at Royal Roads Drill Hall. The Princess and Duke got into their car, but the two reporters could not make theirs. They were left standing in the puddles.

The pair had to seek temporary shelter in a passing colleague's less pretentious vehicle.

"Time, gentlemen," will be called at midnight tonight for 50 workers in B.C.'s four main breweries.

At that hour, members of locals 280 and 300 of the Brewery Workers' Union will go on strike for higher wages.

The unionists are demanding a 35-cent-an-hour raise. They turned down a 25-cent company offer, plus a cost-of-living bonus of one cent an hour for every 1.3 rise in the index.

The four breweries are: Phoenix Brewing Company Ltd., Lucky Lager Brewing Company Ltd., Vancouver Breweries Ltd., and Sick's Capitano Brewery Ltd.

SHOPPING GUIDE

The Rain Didn't Dampen Spirits Of Young Nephew

By PENNY SAVER

I've just phoned my nephew to ask him what he thought of the Prince and Princess so I guess my shopping guide news is "gone with the wind" again.

First thing he said was: "Oh! Aunt Penny you should have seen her, she was lovely!"

"His excited voice bubbled on. 'I saw her Sunday too, when Daddy took me down to the boat that she came here on.'"

"Daddy held me up on his shoulder and I got a good look at her. Gee! She sure was pretty."

"What was she wearing? Do you remember?" I asked him, never expecting an answer.

"Of course I remember," he said rather indignantly. "She had on a brown coat and a brown hat."

Evidently every time he has heard about her on the radio the Princess was wearing and he figured it was one of the things that he should notice too.

He continued, "Her husband looked very nice too, didn't he? I liked his black suit with gold and lots of braid and shiny medals."

"But, oh my! Those guns! Did you hear the big boom? I just about jumped out of my skin. And did you know that the Indians got in their canoes and paddled beside the ship and sang to our Princess? I thought that was very nice of them."

"You know, I was wondering if the Lieutenant Governor would have her flag up on his house by the time she got there. I guess he would look after that though."

He went on breathlessly: "I waited two hours with all the other kids to see her and I got soaked. Sure did rain, but I guess the Princess didn't get wet with that cover over the car."

He chatted on a bit more about things he had noticed and finally ended with, "Wasn't it fun to see them, Aunt Penny? I hope they come again soon to see us?"

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A Medical Examination To Help Increase Vigor

Are you hovering around middle age, whatever and wherever that is, with a load of fatigue, no spring in your walk, and seemingly minor ailments which harass you from time to time? Do you take them in your stride, shrugging them off with the old bromides, "I'm not as young as I used to be," and "At my age one must expect this."

If so, wake up and find out what is happening in the world! One of the saddest things I know is the fact that the average man and woman do not take advantage of the great discoveries concerning health and prolonged youth, increased vitality, attractiveness and happiness.

Most people see a doctor only when they are ill or in pain. Many doctors examine from the viewpoint of discovering and curing illness only and do not probe deeply enough to find and correct conditions which will lead to chronic diseases and aging later on.

The geriatric examination differs in this way. It is a preventive examination as well as a curative one, and much more comprehensive than the usual kind. It brings the whole you, past, present and future, into focus. You will have tests you have probably never had before. Some of these are called "stress tests" which attempt to determine the vitality of different organs and the condition of the circulatory, nervous and glandular systems years before they begin giving you trouble.

Let me quote a part of Dr. C. Ward Crampton's description of the "essentials of the geriatric examination at 50."

"The geriatric examination includes all that has to do with aging as well as illness and disability. Its purpose is to give a foundation and guidance for a program of life management which includes cure, prevention and amelioration of illness, postponement of aging and disability, increase of vigor and vitality, and in so far as possible, de-aging. The whole man and the whole life are examined... the whole man and the whole life are served."

I wish I could tell you that geriatric specialists and counseling are available in every part of the country. This is not true. However, this sort of medicine is spreading rapidly. Your best bet will be to call your local medical society and ask if there are any geriatric-minded doctors about.

Or, you can ask your family physician about it. He may recommend someone or give the examination himself if you give him time. To make it easier for your doctor and you, you may want to send for a Medical Examination Form and Personal Health Record. This is the type generally used in the geriatric examination.

You can obtain one by sending 35 cents with your request for a copy to Public Affairs Committee, Inc., 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, New York.

TODAY'S RECIPE

APPLE LOAF

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup minced apple (unpeeled fruit put through food chopper), 1/4 cup chopped nuts.

Sift flour and measure; sift again with baking powder, soda and salt. Cream shortening with sugar; blend in eggs and minced apple.

Fold in sifted dry ingredients, stirring just enough to moisten. Lastly add chopped nuts.

Bake in well greased loaf pan (8 x 4 inches) in moderate oven (350 F) for 55 minutes.

This loaf is better if allowed to stand for 24 hours before slicing and is excellent served with cream cheese.

Princess Wears Golden Gown At Government House Dinner

A taffeta dinner gown of purest gold color was worn yesterday evening by Princess Elizabeth for the small dinner party at Government House. The bouffant skirt was gathered in soft folds toward the back. A tiny jacket, buttoned high at the throat and with long slim sleeves was of finest filigree lace in the same golden tone.

The Princess carried an evening bag in ivory tones outlined with seed pearls and wore pearl drop earrings as her only jewelry.

Mrs. Mary Woods, Courtenay, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hincks, Langford.

Golden Age Club, Wednesday at 2, Esquimalt Community Club, Sturdee Street.

Mr. John F. Shortt, R.P.E., consultant and chief engineer to Airlite Corporation of America, is staying at the Dominion Hotel.

Miss Susan Robertson, Mrs. Cyril Jones, Mr. E. H. M. Jones, Mrs. Richard Angus and Miss Mary Angus, Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. A. R. Turnbull and Miss V. Turnbull and Mr. John Riddell are among Victorians traveling aboard and who recently visited British Columbia House, Regent Street, London, Eng.

Metropolitan United Church Scene Of Autumn Ceremony

A double ring ceremony in Metropolitan United Church united in marriage Betty Alice Bridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bridge, Grange Road, and P.O. Ivan William Earnshaw, R.C.N., son of Capt. and Mrs. W. C. Earnshaw, Park Terrace, Dr. A. E. Whitehouse officiated.

Mauve, yellow, white and bronze chrysanthemums decorated the church and E. Holloway played traditional organ music.

Mr. Bridge gave his daughter in marriage.

An exquisitely fashioned dress, with net skirt and fitted lace bodice was worn by the bride. It was complemented with a lace jacket and her full length veil trimmed with Swiss lace—was held by a beaded coronet. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white chrysanthemums and her only jewelry was a rhinestone necklace, gift of the groom.

Mrs. J. S. Bridge, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow taffeta gown with lace and taffeta jacket. Her bouquet was mauve chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaid, Miss Velma Hunter, wore a mauve taffeta gown similarly styled to the matron of honor's. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

Best man was P.O. Ken Stewart, R.C.N., and ushers were Peter Bridge, brother of the bride; Brian Kilpatrick, and Jim Peirson.

A four-tier cake centred the bride's table at the reception in the home of her parents. Fall flowers created an attractive setting in the rooms. R. Peters proposed the toast.

For her honeymoon Up-Island the bride wore a light blue suit with a darker toned top-coat and a corsage of yellow roses.

Pioneer Members Introduced

Women's Benefit Association, Review No. 1, held their annual banquet recently at Strathcona Hotel. Mrs. M. Dunsmore introduced the following pioneer guests, Mesdames J. Ricketts, A. Adams, S. McNeil, S. Keefe and M. Akerman.

All pioneers were over 80 years of age and each received a corsage of mauve and white chrysanthemums.

A large birthday cake made by Mrs. J. Bowden, centred the refreshment table which was decorated by Mrs. B. Brown.

Whist was played following the banquet.

P.T.A. Notes

Oak Bay — Mrs. W. A. Trenholme will speak on her recent world tour and show films, at meeting of Oak Bay High School P.T.A., Wednesday, at 8, in the school library.

Cordova Bay — Mrs. W. W. McGill will speak on "Better Parents" and conduct a discussion at meeting of Cordova Bay P.T.A., Thursday, at 8, in the school library.

Prospect Lake — Tenth anniversary of Prospect Lake P.T.A. was celebrated recently at the school where rooms were decorated for the occasion with autumn flowers and candles made by pupils of Grades 5 and 6. Photographs of pupils dating back to 1930 were on display.

Mrs. R. Lohr, only original member attending, was presented with a corsage. President Mrs. S. Jacobs introduced former presidents, C. Gaskill, R. Phillips, Mesdames W. Laidlaw and G. Quinton, all of whom spoke briefly. Contests and games were arranged by Miss A. Curtis and Mrs. Quinton, accompanied community singling.

A decorated cake with lighted candles centred the refreshment table. Assisting as servers were Mesdames W. Howes, J. Long, A. Curtis and Miss E. Pierce.

Wanda Willis Married Saturday

St. Mark's Church was scene of a picturesque autumn wedding, Saturday evening, when Wanda Mae Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Willis, Royal Oak, exchanged nuptial vows with Donald Harold Beise, son of Mrs. Inis Beise, Summit Avenue. Canon R. Willis officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a pastel blue knitted suit for her wedding ensemble. Her accessories were navy with gardenia corsage.

Miss Peggy Cudby, bridesmaid, carried a colonial bouquet of hebe yellow chrysanthemums to complement her grey knitted outfit.

Keith Beise, brother of the groom, was best man.

White candles and autumn flowers decorated the bride's table at a reception in the home of Mrs. Lorne L. Campbell, Blenkinsop Road. A three-tier wedding cake centred the table and Mr. Campbell proposed the toast.

Upon leaving for a honeymoon on the mainland, the bride donned a short brown fur coat over her wedding ensemble. Her accessories were navy with gardenia corsage.

Pretty pies are easy to make with gorgeous canned cling peach slices. One of our favorites has a baked graham cracker crumb shell with a creamy custard filling made with evaporated milk and canned cling peach slices. Arrange a garland of peaches on top, too, so it'll look extra glamorous.

Tea convener was Mrs. A. J. Gilbert; decorations, Mrs. D. C. Kyle; assistants, Mesdames F. A. Fischer, J. A. Achtem, C. I. Hinchcliffe, W. Keck, W. Hitchcox. Mrs. A. Stevenson and Mrs. J. Kilcoyne were in charge of receipts.

Evening refreshments were under the supervision of Mrs. Patrick Fagan, assisted by Misses Sheilagh Fagan, Bernice O'Brien, Therise O'Brien, Frances O'Brien. Games were operated and directed by the Students' Council.

Ready To Be Presented To Royal Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. David Wallace, left, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallace, sons and daughters-in-law of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace, were presented to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip prior to a private dinner party at Government House yesterday evening. They came from Vancouver for the occasion and are staying at the Empress Hotel.

Royalty And Senior Officers Meet

Their Royal Highnesses, the Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, climaxed a full day of public and social appearances at the reception in the castle at Royal Roads yesterday afternoon.

Senior officers of the services and their wives were presented to the Royal couple at the late afternoon reception.

They were accompanied by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace, the Hon. Byron Johnson, Premier of British Columbia, and Mrs. Johnson; the Hon. R. W. Mayhew, minister of fisheries, and Mrs. Mayhew; and Rear Admiral Wallace B. Creery, C.B.E., R.C.N., flag officer, Pacific Coast; Mrs. Creery and Miss Creery.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Creery were hosts at the event and the admiral made the presentations.

Silver bowls of gold and bronze chrysanthemums stood on the mantles of the fireplaces at either end of the spacious room and a bowl of the same-toned flowers stood in the large window overlooking the lagoon.

Prince Chats With Mrs. Hodges

Yesterday morning in the Legislative Chamber at the Parliament Buildings, Their Royal Highnesses, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, were relaxed, smiled frequently, and seemed very much at ease.

They chatted briefly with many who passed them in the presentation line and the clear, soft voice of the Princess could easily be heard in the high-ceiling room.

First person to be stopped for a few words was Hon. Nancy Hodges.

Prince Philip asked Mrs. Hodges what her position was in the Legislature and when she answered that she was Speaker, His Royal Highness said, "Isn't that very unusual?"

"I am the only woman Speaker in the British Commonwealth," Mrs. Hodges replied.

"How many do you have in the Legislature?" questioned the Prince.

"Forty-six men and one woman," answered Mrs. Hodges. "How do you manage them all?" again questioned the Prince.

"Do you use a gavel?" Mrs. Hodges assured Prince Philip that so far she had been able to keep order on the floor of the House.

Tolmie — D. R. McKay, former school principal was presented with a pen at recent meeting of Tolmie P.T.A. by Mrs. H. Giles. Mr. McKay presented the following members with their pins: Mesdames H. Giles, H. Fletcher, G. Wansborough, L. Newell and P. Atkinson. A film on habits and actions of children was shown. Mrs. G. Wells was in charge of the tea. A successful visitor's day tea was held recently when school orchestra played selections and pupils danced.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Along the edge of the Old Pasture the sumacs were red, the living flame of the dying year. On the doorstep of their home close to a ledge party way up a long slope in the Old Pasture sat Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy. Their red coats had been well cared for and were lovely. There were hunters and trappers who envied Reddy and Mrs. Reddy those coats and would if they had the chance take those coats from them.

From over on the edge of the Green Forest came the hateful sound the bang of a gun. Reddy looked at Mrs. Reddy. She understood the look. "We'll go over there after dark," said she.

Reddy nodded. "We may not find anything, but then we may. It is always worth while to look around where those terrible guns have been," said he.

"I wonder if it was Longbill the Woodcock or Thunderer the Grouse the hunter with that dreadful gun was after," said Mrs. Reddy.

Just then a double bang sounded from another direction. Reddy grinned. "I don't wish anyone any harm," said he, "but if it does happen to someone, I hope it will be good luck for us."

Mrs. Reddy looked at Reddy. He was grinning slightly. He was remembering the many feasts they had had on Grouse and Woodcock and Quail that had fallen to the dreadful guns of other years. Sometimes the feathered folk had been badly wounded and had crept away and hidden and died where the hunters could not find them. Sometimes they had been merely wounded so that they could not fly, but could run.

In this way they had managed to escape the hunters and their dogs, only to be found later by Reddy and Mrs. Reddy, who knew that they themselves were in small danger. Later they would be hunted for their coats, but now the hunters were looking for feathered folk and perhaps Rabbits.

"I hate those hunters with the dreadful fire-sticks. Yes, sir, I hate them. But they do give us Foxes many a feast we otherwise would not have. We are always sure of good living while the seasons of dreadful guns last," said Reddy.

Heroic Nurse Dies Saving Actress' Son

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23 (UP)

A heroic, 68-year-old nurse was credited today with sacrificing her life to save the three-year-old son of film comedienne Cass Daley from being crushed beneath a runaway car.

Mrs. Mary Strook, nurse for Miss Daley's son, Dale, died Monday shortly after she was pinned under the actress' car as it rolled down a hill.

She fell beneath the wheels as she moved the little boy out of its path, and the car dragged her 36 feet into the street in front of Miss Daley's home.

Police had to jack up the auto to remove her. She was pronounced dead at Santa Monica Hospital. Dale escaped with only a bump on his head.

Miss Daley told police the accident occurred after she, the nurse, today with returning from taking their laundrywoman home. She said she parked the car in the garage and set the brake.

As they walked away, the car began to roll down the driveway, directly at little Dale, who was going to the mailbox with the nurse.

"I was walking toward the house from the garage," Miss Daley said. "When I heard Mrs. Strook scream, I turned around in time to see her push him from in front of the car."

She said the nurse apparently tried to stop the car by bracing her back against it, but she fell under the wheels.

Ed Wheeler Bids For Chief's Job

WENATCHEE, Oct. 22 (AP)

Eddie Wheeler, former Pacific Coast infielder with Portland Beavers, has applied for a job as player-manager of the Western International League Wenatchee Chiefs.

"Wheeler assured us he could play in 100 games next season, one of our requirements for the job," Mayor Arthur Pohlman, president of the ball club, said today.

"He was with Portland in 1942-43-44, with the Cleveland Indians in 1945 and back with the Beavers in 1946. Since then he has managed in the Arizona-Texas, Far West and Sunset Leagues at Mesa, Marysville, Mexicali and Las Vegas."

Pohlman said the team will not announce its new manager until after the minor league meetings in Columbus, O., in December. Rupert (Tommy) Thompson has managed the club for the last two years.

No Princess In Seattle; Pair Of Young Visitors Explain

"We don't have any princesses in Seattle."

That was the explanation given by two eight-year-olds from the Puget Sound city who shared a tiny box near the amputees' section in front of the Parliament Buildings Monday. The two little girls identified themselves as Maril Schenck and Delores Saunders, both pupils at View Ridge School. They said they'd been brought to Victoria by their mothers.

"I don't know where they are now though," Maril confided. "They must have got lost some place."

The little girls were not at all worried—they were too busy watching the red-coated Mounties and eyeing the steel-helmeted soldiers.

"We saw the princess go right by," Delores said. "And we're going to stay here 'cos she has to go by again."

14 Dead After Moonshine Jag

ATLANTA, Oct. 23 (UP)

A lethal batch of illicit whisky, possibly concocted by mixing paint remover and water, killed 14 negroes and hospitalized 19 others, police reported today.

Grady Hospital authorities said three of the 19 were near death. All of the victims attended week-end "moonshine" parties in "Peopletown," an area in Atlanta's negro section.

Detectives seized four negroes in a series of flying raids on suspected liquor dives and jailed them on suspicion of manslaughter.

Lieut. L. T. Bullard of the homicide squad, described the incident as even "more widespread" than a Christmas Eve party in 1949 that resulted in death for 12 persons.

Suffers Fracture

Rubin Carlson, 17, of 3073 Alhambra, suffered a broken left arm at the Dalziel Box Factory today. It was caught in machinery.

He was taken to Jubilee Hospital by Constables Robert Mair and Bonar Hannay.

House Endorses Canada's Aid In Korea And N.A.T.O.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—The Commons, told by External Affairs Minister Pearson that the democracies are faced with many years of peril, Monday endorsed continuation of Canada's military efforts in Korea and in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Speakers for all four parties in the chamber were unanimous in the view that security was to be found in strong collective defense forces. They spoke during a foreign affairs debate, highlighted by Pearson's review of the international situation.

There has been, said Pearson, a "little, a very little, general improvement in the last six months, but I doubt whether there has been any substantial easing of world tension." Western Europe's morale was higher and fears of immediate aggression had lessened there.

But there were grave and growing dangers in the Middle East and in the Far East. Communism was as militant and defiant as ever. There were two types of aggression to fear, military and economic. How to maintain a balance between efforts to cope with both was the central problem for the free world.

Russia might well have decided to avoid open war now, but a marathon race would go on for many years and the West could not afford to stop preparations.

Mr. Pearson rejected a suggestion from Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra) that Canada take the lead in building the Commonwealth into a third world power. Such a move would lead to the sort of centralization this country has opposed for years.

Any such move would wreck the Commonwealth because such countries as India, Pakistan and South Africa would never agree. He said it would be wrong to attempt to negotiate a Pacific pact at this time. Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel), foreign affairs spokesman for the official opposition, disagreed and said that a Pacific pact should be concluded now to protect Canada's back door.

Mr. Pearson said the United Nations remains a foremost instrument for collective security, but there is a danger it may go the way of the League of Nations.

BURNS LAKE, B.C., Oct. 23 (CP).—Roy Fox, 16, of Telkwa, died in a fire Sunday following an explosion and fire in a one-room shack near Burns Lake.

Michael Skrypnik, 21, a roommate, suffered severe burns in attempts to save Fox.

Fox, police reported, was lighting a fire with high-test gasoline when it became ignited. He hurled the can at a doorway where it hit and exploded.

Freight Jams As Stevedores' Strike Paralyzes New York Port; Boston Hit

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP).—Tons of army material and civilian merchandise piled up on the docks today with striking stevedores in almost complete control of the world's biggest port.

The freight jam has brought a railroad embargo on most goods consigned here for export and coastal shipping.

As the rebel walkout threatened to erupt along the Atlantic coast, bagged union leaders were summoned to an emergency meeting today by their president, John P. Ryan.

Ryan, head of the International Longshoremen's Association (A.F.L.), said the session would be attended by executive committee members of the Atlantic district.

There were reports that I.L.A. leaders would bow to the demands of the wildcat strikers and ask to reopen contract talks with shipping and stevedoring firms.

All but one or two piers in the harbor were tied up Monday night.

Some 97 vessels have been immobilized by the strike, and several others have had to start return voyages with their original cargoes still in the holds.

Estimates of the number of strikers ranged from 6,000 and 20,000.

They are demanding a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase instead of the 10-cent boost the employers granted in the new contract. This pact raised the average pay to $2.10 an hour.

Nine freighters were tied up by the walkout.

The strike also threatened to interfere with the departure this afternoon of the Furness Withy liner Newfoundland with 70 passengers for Halifax, St. John's, Nfld., and Liverpool, Eng. Company officials said the vessel would sail without loading cargo for the United Kingdom.

QUAKE TOLL RISING

TAIPEI, Formosa, Oct. 23 (Reuters). Widespread destruction was reported today in large areas of nationalist-held Formosa where at least 80 persons have been killed and thousands made homeless by heavy earth shocks since dawn Monday.

BOSTON, Oct. 23 (AP).—Shipping in and out of the port of Boston was paralyzed today by sympathy strike of 1,500 longshoremen and 300 waterfront handlers. The men are refusing to unload cargo diverted here from struck New York and New Jersey piers.

BULLETINS

Duke Is Driver

Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, is the Princess Elizabeth's chauffeur today. His Royal Highness took the wheel of the car at Government House at 2:30 for the up-Island drive to Eaglecrest.

For Cheaper Milk

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—The B.C. Milk Board was told today that Canada Safeway, Limited, is willing to build a $216,000 processing plant in Vancouver to supply milk to stores at two to three cents less than the price for home delivery.

The Milk Board is hearing the company's application to fix consumer prices for milk sold in stores at less than the delivery price.

W. F. Wood, Safeway's statistician, told the board the plan would put the grocery chain into the dairy business under a company board name.

New R.C.N. School

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—A new basic training school for French-speaking recruits of the Royal Canadian Navy will be opened in Quebec City next January, defense headquarters announced today.

Represent Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—F. H. Larson, Liberal member of Parliament for Kenderley, and Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Progressive Conservative member for Nanaimo, will be members of a delegation representing Canada at the sixth session of the United Nations general assembly starting in Paris, November 6. It was announced today.

I'm beginnin' t' understand why those boys in th' olden days bolted on their armor an' went off in search of princesses.

Today's headline: "Duke ducks ducks."

Just for a day or two it was nice t' fergit Iran, Korea, Egypt, Bettle Lake an' them other problems.

HER HIGHNESS IS 'BETTY' TO HER SAILOR HUSBAND

The Duke of Edinburgh calls his Princess wife "Betty." This was revealed at Monday's state luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

Princess Elizabeth was so engrossed in the diamond and emerald necklace and earrings presented her by the people of the province through Premier Byron Johnson, she obviously was forgetting the rigid time schedule. Finally the Prince leaned toward her and said:

"Betty, we really should be leaving."

"Betty agreed and on their way out the Princess was heard to remark she had never received a more beautiful gift than the necklace and earrings."

Prince Philip asked her why she didn't put them on. It wasn't known if Her Royal Highness did so.

She was so well wrapped against the weather for the tour of the city which followed the luncheon that it was impossible to see what jewelry she wore.

Egypt Defies Ban In Sudan

Troops Ordered To Remain There By Force London War Office Hears

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 23 (AP).—Egyptian mobs roamed the streets of Cairo today shouting for arms to settle their differences with Britain. It was a nation-wide "day of mourning" to honor 16 Egyptians killed in last week's disorders.

In London, meanwhile, the War Office said it has received a report that Egyptian troops have been ordered to stay in the Sudan by force if necessary.

(The War Office said the report came from the senior British official in the Sudan.)

The crowds in Cairo, estimated at several thousand, were fairly orderly, but in Alexandria, Egypt's second largest city, police had to fire into the air to keep demonstrators in check.

ROADS BARRED

The new demonstrations followed a British move sharply cutting rail and traffic and banning road movement in the disputed Suez Canal area. The traffic cuts will remain in force until Egyptian dock laborers, boycotting the unloading of British supply ships at the British military port of Adabia, 10 miles south of Suez, go back to work a British spokesman said.

In Cairo where anti-British feeling was rising, the demonstrators yelled: "We want arms." One of the crowd held up a gun and shouted: "This is how we will talk to Attila."

All shops were closed this afternoon in Alexandria and Cairo.

Britain increased her hold on the Suez Canal area last night by seizing the harbor and rail station at Port Said.

RUN BY TROOPS

The Egyptian governor of Suez told reporters there was no more train traffic between the canal zone and the rest of Egypt, although within the boundaries of the zone, traffic "returned to normal."

A British spokesman here said the canal zone trains were operated by British military personnel.

Suez itself was quiet during the day, as its Egyptian residents noted the "day of mourning."

British forces which occupied a railway workshop outside Suez last night withdrew this morning.

Davidoff Loses Murder Appeal

Appeal Court today dismissed the murder appeal of Doukhobor John M. Davidoff of Brilliant, B.C.

The accused is scheduled to be executed on Dec. 11. Davidoff was found guilty by a Nelson Assize Court jury of shooting his 20-year-old son Joseph, last spring.

The son was found dead in bed. He had been killed by a rifle bullet.

Prince, Princess Go North For Well-Earned Holiday

At the western extremity and turning point in a tour which has brought them face to face with 4,000,000 Canadians, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip today started a brief but well-earned holiday.

The three-day rest at Eaglecrest, near Qualicum, will restore the royal stamina in preparation for the trip back to Montreal, Washington and Newfoundland where millions are awaiting them.

The royal couple left Government House about 2:30 this afternoon on a flexible schedule.

They expect to arrive at Eaglecrest about 5 p.m., and they will pass through Nanaimo about 5:10 p.m.

Every organized body in the Cowichan district was alerted early this morning to be ready for the Royal procession. The highway near Duncan was decorated at an early hour.

Mayor J. C. Wragg was hoping everyone would get the message.

TELEPHONES HOT

Cowichan District 65 School Board kept telephones hot all morning arranging for school buses and other transportation to bring 3,000 children to vantage points.

The decision to go directly to Eaglecrest today was announced this morning.

Previous plans, announced Monday night, had Princess Elizabeth scheduled for an appointment with her hairdresser this morning—and "complete rest" in the afternoon.

The Prince was to have flown by Canoe amphibian with Lieut. Gov. Clarence Wallace to his hunting lodge at Silver Bay on the Mainland. They planned on duck-hunting.

Fishing was scheduled for Genua Bay Wednesday morning.

STUDIED WEATHER

All those plans were changed after The Royal Highnesses studied the weather forecast.

"They changed their minds," said Walter Thompson, chief press officer who made the announcement.

"This is a holiday so there will be no hard and fast program," said Lt.-Cmdr. Michael Parker, equerry-in-waiting.

Strict security regulations have been put into effect around Eaglecrest. Nobody will be allowed beyond the front gate so the lodge will give the royal couple plenty of privacy.

Their Royal Highnesses are expected to view logging operations near Qualicum some time during their stay. They are anxious to watch high-riggers at work.

RESENTS INFERENCE

Gene Griffin, correspondent of the Chicago Daily Tribune, said later he "disliked the whole tone of the meeting."

"I resent the inference that we are 'bothering' Their Royal Highnesses," he said. "We are doing a tough job under very trying conditions."

Times publisher Stuart Keate said today: "We will adhere to our original pledge. Once the Royal couple enters the gates of Eaglecrest they are on holiday. Our correspondents are being recalled after the Royal entourage passes Duncan."

Bond Sales Up

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—The Bank of Canada today reported $67,500,000 worth of Canadian savings bond sales during the first week of the current campaign.

Sales, increasing 21 per cent from the $55,700,000 in the first week of last year's campaign, went to 209,000 buyers, up 4 per cent from 200,600 buyers in the same period last year.

Meanwhile a tremendous betting surge on Winston Churchill and his Conservatives was reported today by London bookmakers.

Douglas Stuart Ltd., one of the United Kingdom's biggest betting commissioners, marked up the odds against a Labor Government victory from 3 to 1 to 9 to 2 between mid-morning and early evening.

Meanwhile his odds against the Conservatives were slashed from 2 to 9 to 1 to 6.

This means a person who wants to bet on Labor must put up two dollars to win nine, while a Conservative bettor must risk six dollars to win one.

"It's the biggest betting election ever," said Stuart spokesman. "More money is coming in than we have handled on any horse race this year except the Derby. A lot of the bets are big ones—up to a thousand pounds."

At Plymouth Winston Churchill said today a Labor victory in Thursday's general election would weaken Anglo-American unity and the hope of world peace.

The consensus still was that the Tories will win.
